NAB SUSPECT ON WIFE'S TIP

S. End Man Wanted in Baby Killing

Ted's Okay, Will Play Tonight

Ted Williams, who was hit on the right wrist by one of Chicago hurler Eddie Lopat's pitches yesterday, has his wife apply an ice bag to the swollen wrist today at their Brighton home. Mrs. Williams said her slugging husband's wrist was "as big as a balloon all night long, but he says it's nothing." X-rays showed there was no fracture, and Red Sox officials said the slugger would be in action in tonight's game with the White Sox.

British Transport Blown Up at Haifa

By BENN FELLER

JERUSALEM, July 23 (INS)—The British ferry ship Empire Lifeguard was sunk and at least 11 British troops injured today as the Palestine underground intensified its campaign of violence. A mighty explosion, which shook North Palestine port of Haifa, tore a 48-square-foot hole below the waterline of the transport used in shifting Jewish immigrants between the Holy Land and Cyprus.

Huge Gain By Dutch In Java

BATAVIA, Java, July 23 (AP)—The Dutch army today reported American-trained Marines moving south from north coast beachheads had less than 10 miles to go to pinch off 2400 square miles of East Java from the rest of Republican Indonesia.

The communique indicated the Dutch motorized and armor-protected troops were pushing deep into Java and Sumatra on at least 10 fronts, with resistance only sporadically encountered.

On the Semarang front in Central Java, the Dutch advanced southward 30 miles—or more than a third of the way to the Republican capital of Jogjakarta.

The Dutch announcement said Netherlands fighters were within 10 miles of East Java's southern coast on their way across a narrow bottleneck.

On Sumatra, the communique reported, a Dutch column had moved more than 70 miles to the west of Palembang.

U. S. Faces Test On Indonesian War

ing Jewish immigrants between the Holy Land and Cyprus.

Within a short time, the ship settled beside the quay where 300 Jewish refugees had just disembarked. Forty of 50 other immigrants, who had just been brought from Cyprus, were aboard when the blast occurred. None was hurt.

An official announcement, meanwhile, said that one British officer and six soldiers were injured, one seriously, when their truck was blown up near Rishon Lezion, in the Tel Aviv area.

In the Mount Carmel region, four other troops were injured when a land-mine knocked their military vehicle into a roadside ditch.

Haganah, so-called Jewish defense army and most moderate of the Palestine underground factions, was believed responsible for placing the explosive charges which shook the ferry ship.

Jerusalem observers pointed out that, if confirmed, this would represent the second time since Sunday that Haganah has been credited with the deportation to France of 454 persons seized on the blockade runner, European Exodus of 1947.

This also might indicate fulfillment of underground warnings that all three clandestine groups—Haganah, the more militant Stern Gang and Irgun Zvai Leumi—were unwilling in an all-out campaign against British rule.

Roland H. Parker Named Barnes Aide

Atty. Gen. Barnes today named Roland H. Parker, Winchester, to be an assistant attorney general.

Parker, for five years counsel for the legislative committee on railroads, is married and has one child. He is a graduate of Boston University and Suffolk Law School. During the war he was a member of the appeal board of the Winchester draft board and served for a time in the Coast Guard temporary reserve.

LOUISE GOMEZ, 14-YEAR-OLD HONOR STUDENT Confesses Choking, Bludgeoning Mary Lou Roman, 10

Honor Girl Pupil Obeys Urge, Kills

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 23 (AP)—A 14-year-old girl honor student, who said she was plagued for a year by "the extreme desire to kill someone," was held in the Sacramento County jail today for the hammer and jack handle slaying of 10-year-old Mary Lou Roman at a home for foster children.

Intention to file a first-degree murder charge today against Louise Gomez was announced by the district attorney's office after the superintendent of a hospital for mental cases pronounced the girl "an extremely dangerous individual."

Dr. Rudolf Toller, head of Stockton State Hospital, said, however, that Louise was not insane. Dr. Toller quoted her as saying during lengthy questioning: "For one year I have had the extreme desire to kill someone. I had thought of killing several people. I thought of killing my mother, my father, and the children in the family. I lacked the courage."

He said she told of planning to kill a foster brother, saying: "I had my hand on his throat and even had a hand axe over his head several times but I guess I lacked the courage."

Louise, who made straight A's in school and also is a tap dancer and pianist, was arrested after the body of Mary Lou was found Monday in the yard of the foster home. The licensed home was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gomez who had adopted Louise. Mary Lou was one of the foster children.

Conviction of Louise would carry the maximum possible penalty of life imprisonment, the heaviest for persons under 18 in California. Louise admitted that, while sitting with Mary Lou on the back porch of the house, she choked the girl, struck her with the jack handle, then crushed her skull with a sledge hammer.

When all hope of her recovery was abandoned, surgeons decided to perform the caesarian operation in an attempt to save her child's life. The baby was safely delivered, but the ordeal was so much for the mother on top of the polio affliction. Hospital authorities today reported the baby in good condition, but there was gloom throughout the institution over the tragic death of the mother. Doctors said that Mrs. Wilkes, when admitted, was within a few weeks of normal delivery.

Polio Kills Mother But Baby Lives

PROVIDENCE, July 23—Pathos marked the futile efforts of surgeons and physicians at the Charles V. Chapin Hospital here to save the life of a young West Barrington mother, a victim of infantile paralysis, who died a few hours after giving caesarian birth to a 6½-pound baby girl.

Stricken with polio the expectant mother, Mrs. Dorothy P. Wilkes, 35, was admitted to the hospital Sunday for treatment of the dread affliction. When she became worse, doctors began the losing battle to save the lives of both mother and infant.

All the resources of modern medical science were brought into use to fight the ravages of the deadly polio germ, but the patient failed to respond.

When all hope of her recovery was abandoned, surgeons decided to perform the caesarian operation in an attempt to save her child's life. The baby was safely delivered, but the ordeal was so much for the mother on top of the polio affliction.

Baby Killer Suspect Held on Wife's Tip

An attractive, red-haired Roxbury mother of two boys admitted today she gave police the tip that brought about the arrest of her husband as a suspect in the vicious rape-slaying last Mother's Day of Carol Thompson, 5, of Lansdale, Pa. The suspect, a 29-year-old former South End man, had been sought for questioning throughout the nation. Police reported that immediately after his arrest late yesterday, the suspect talked at length about the murder, claiming it was committed by a pal of his named Smith. In the lineup today, however, the man denied any knowledge of the crime and insisted that he was drunk when officers first picked him up and that he didn't know what he was saying.

Nevertheless, detectives said he appeared to know intimate details of the murder. Pennsylvania authorities, notified of his arrest, said they would send State police investigators here to question him.

The suspect had returned to Boston only a few days ago after a long absence from the city.

"I thought something was wrong, he had been away so long," his wife said. "I knew police wanted him because they had come to the house to tell me. I was surprised to learn he is under suspicion for the murder of a little girl. But I have no sympathy for him."

Mother of two boys aged 6 and 4, the wife said her husband had not supported her or the children for four years. She first learned of his return to Boston, she said, when he took their oldest boy from the Norfolk House playground without her knowledge and kept him away all day.

When the father brought the boy back to her home, she said she went next door to ask a neighbor to telephone police to come and pick up her husband. He was arrested a short time later at the house by Special Officers Frank Davenport and Edward Greeley.

Lt. Frank Wilson of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation questioned the suspect with Capt. Francis W. Russell of the Roxbury Crossing Station. Wilson said the man gave the following story in their presence to a police stenographer:

"Last May 10th another fellow and myself who had been living at the Salvation Army Camp in Philadelphia, started out for Lansdale to keep a date with a couple of girls."

"On the way over, this other fellow whose name was 'Smith' stopped at the top of a hill just outside Lansdale when he saw a little blonde child pulling her brother up a hill in a cart. 'I left him there and walked down into the town to have a drink. He joined me a few minutes later and said, 'We've got to get out of here. I've just got into a lot of trouble with those kids.'"

"We drove back to Philadelphia and that's the last time I saw him. He's gone to Chicago, I think."

Lt. Wilson immediately contacted Det. Henry Fitzgerald of the Pennsylvania State Police, who had sent a letter to Boston police on June 7 asking them to check up on the man's whereabouts on May 11, the day the Thompson girl's body was found in the well.

The suspect said he had only arrived in Boston on Monday and had been in Philadelphia and on the "road" since that time.

Lt. Wilson said the suspect's story appeared to be so authentic that he would have Pennsylvania police come to Boston today to take over the questioning. "He seems to know too much about the murder to be making up this kind of a story," Lt. Wilson added. "The little blonde girl's body was found in the well a few hours after her brother, William, Jr., 6, returned to their home to tell his parents what had happened. A stranger stopped his car on the top of the hill, young William said, and pushed him down the hill in the cart and dragged Carol into the car and drove away. When Carol's body was found, her dress and underclothing had been ripped off but she was still wearing a little red coat. She had been criminally attacked.

The medical examiner's report said she had been struck with a very blunt instrument and a shoulder strap of her dress had been tightened around her neck after she was dead.

Wage Boost Ends Brief Cable Strike

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Company and union officials announced today that a strike of 200 cable employees of subsidiaries of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. called last midnight, was ended two and one-half hours later on the basis of a 10 cents per hour, across the board wage increase.

The settlement was announced by Forrest L. Henderson, executive vice-president of the American Cable and Radio System, holding company for the firms involved and confirmed by Joseph P. Selby, president of the American Communications Ass'n, CIO, and Kenneth Stillman, chairman of the executive committee of the All America Cable Employees Ass'n (Independent).

The dispute threatened to disrupt one-third of the country's foreign radio and cable facilities.

Brown-Eyed Blonde Has Cops Agog

You take a brown-eyed blonde in a peppermint-stick dress and you've got something—which was what the Roxbury Crossing police had today.

Baby talk came naturally to this one; she was about three, they estimated. They had to estimate it because, like many brown-eyed blondes, she refused to reveal her age. She was also refusing to yield her address, to say nothing of her telephone number.

They plied her with ice cream and goodies but the more they gave her the more she insisted she hadn't the slightest idea where she lived.

She had been brought in by a man who said he had found her wandering desolately in Roxbury st. at 7:30 a. m. but she brightened quickly when they gave her the ice cream treatment.

In addition to her red and white striped dress, she sported blue socks, white shoes and a charming ogle for the coppers.

Moritz Letters Stir Noxon Storm

Dr. Alan R. Moritz, Harvard pathologist and the Commonwealth's outstanding medical expert, today declined to play any further part in the full-swing campaign to win a pardon for John F. Noxon, Pittsfield attorney serving life for the murder of his baby.

The Harvard expert, chief state medical witness during Noxon's two trials, was thrust squarely into the center of the case with announcement by former-Gov. Joseph Duell Ely that a petition for a pardon for Noxon would be filed with Gov. Bradford within a week.

Ely based his plea on the first one of two letters submitted to former-Gov. Tobin, in which Dr. Moritz stated:

"I do not believe that an open-minded jury could have found Noxon guilty beyond a reasonable doubt."

Quick to combat the Ely move was Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti of Berkshire County, who termed the pardon campaign "an outrage and a travesty on justice." Alberti cited a second Moritz letter which stated in part:

"The evidence supports the government's contention that Noxon was guilty."

Queried at his Jamaica Plain home today on his apparently contradictory conclusions, Dr. Moritz told the Boston Evening American:

"I have no amplification to make whatsoever. I have nothing

Dems Rapped For Blocking Ballot Probe

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, said today that in justice to himself Atty.-Gen. Clark ought to help clear the way for a senatorial investigation into his handling of Kansas. City vote fraud charges.

Ferguson's call for a break in the solid Democratic opposition which has stalled Senate action on a pending inquiry resolution came on top of these other developments in the controversy.

1—Sen. Hatch (D.) of New Mexico, labelled as politics a charge by Republican National Chairman Reece that the opposition party's "frenzied efforts" to prevent an inquiry over "conclusive evidence of Democrat desperation on the eve of the 1948 presidential campaign."

2—Sen. Langer (R.) of North Dakota, defended Clark's action in the Kansas City case, shouting to the Senate that "if a federal gestapo" from Washington runs elections, we will soon have the same control over elections as they have in foreign countries."

Rep. Pioeser (R.) of Missouri stood ready to introduce in the House a proposal similar to that blocked in the Senate.

Sen. Kern (D.) of Missouri has sought a special committee investigation of Clark's order for a preliminary inquiry into the vote buying charges in the 1946 Democratic primary in which Enos A. Axtell won the fifth Missouri district congressional nomination.

Axtell, supported by President Truman, later was defeated by Rep. Albert Reeves, Jr., a Republican.

Clark first reported no evidence was found of federal law violations. Later he appointed a special prosecutor who obtained the indictment of five persons.

Ferguson told a reporter this subsequent action "indicated there was something there all the time and the attorney general should have known it."

fellows and even had to work a year in Paris as a civilian to see that his ailing wife recovered and eventually was permitted to come to the United States.

The Medford ex-GI bumped up to his Medford home aboard an Army jeep which he brought back from Paris and which still bore French registration plates. He debarbed at New York from the SS DeGrasse, loaded his family and baggage on the jeep, and didn't strike a bit of trouble on the drive from New York.

"I'll get it licensed now that I'm home," he said. "There wasn't a cop that bothered me all the way from New York. Guess the French plates intrigued them."

Navarro met his bride, the former Adeline Renaudie, while he was in the Army, stationed outside Paris. They were wed, but soon after he was sent back to the United States and demobilized.

Vainly he strove to get his wife to the United States. When he heard she and their son, then only 5 weeks old, were ill in a Paris hospital, he got permission to fly to their bedside. But he couldn't get back then and had to work as a civilian there for a whole year before necessary arrangements could be made for them all to come here together.

So now Navarro—who is a motor mechanic—is going to take a good long rest and enjoy life. He feels he deserves one.

Air-Sea Aid Sped To Stricken Sailor

Coastguardsmen were speeding by air and sea today to the aid of a fellow member, an 18-year-old seaman serving aboard the weather patrol cutter Bibb, who was stricken with appendicitis while on station off Newfoundland.

A PBY patrol plane was sent out from the Air-Sea Rescue base at Argentina? N. F., to attempt a risky sea landing to take off the sick youth, while the cutter Spencer, with a surgeon aboard, was diverted from ice patrol duties to remove the sailor in case the plane failed. Last position of the Bibb was given as approximately 400 miles from Argentina.

Identity of the young coastguardsman was not made public, although his family was advised.

FBI to Check Kravchenko's Story on Reds

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS)

—Rep. Thomas (R.) of New Jersey, reported today that testimony of Victor Kravchenko charging that Russian officials in the United States had stolen American airplane and submarine secrets will be turned over to government agents for further action.

Thomas revealed that the former Soviet army officer submitted names of Russians engaged in the espionage work to the committee in secret session.

He announced that the record of Kravchenko's testimony in full will be delivered to the FBI and Army and Navy Intelligence authorities.

Kravchenko charged that the Soviet purchasing mission with which he served in New York had obtained detailed plans, photographs, blue prints and notes on U. S. planes during the war. He asserted that the material was delivered personally to Moscow by a Soviet official enjoying diplomatic immunity.

He testified that he had reliable knowledge that U. S. submarine plans were stolen similarly during the war. He charged that "every responsible Russian representative who comes to the United States is either a political or economic spy."

The author of the best seller, "I Chose Freedom," declared that Soviet military experts frequently were sent to the United States in civilian guise to facilitate the espionage work.

Further disclosures of Communist espionage in this country were postponed until tomorrow when Dr. Mildred Gimlo-Zorkin, who renounced the Communist regime of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia, will appear.

Meanwhile, the committee will begin its probe of alleged Communist infiltration of the Winston-Salem, N. C., local of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers' Union.

Ann Mathews, Gene Pratt, Spencer Long, Edward McCrea, W. C. Sheppard and Robert C. Black were called to testify on the recent strike at the Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Truman Ruling Due On Credit Buying

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Denied specific peace-time authority to regulate time payment buying, President Truman today faces a decision on when to lift credit restraints on such items as automobiles, refrigerators and radios.

The President had recommended that the controls—imposed by wartime executive order—be continued for a while with the approval of Congress as a curb against inflation.

But the House instead approved a bill late yesterday to end such controls immediately. The voice vote action rejected a Senate-approved measure to continue modified restraints to Dec. 31. Chairman Wolcott (R.) of Michigan of the House banking committee said after the House vote:

"It is now up to the President to get rid of the credit controls, as he said he would do if he did not get specific authority from Congress. It is certain the House will not authorize such regulations. The Senate bill is dead."

The controls now in force require one-third down payments, with installments running no longer than 15 months, on automobiles, stoves, mechanical dishwashers, ironers, refrigerators, washing machines, room unit air conditioners, radios, phonographs, sewing machines and vacuum cleaners. A 20 per cent down payment, with installments limited to 15 months, is required for furniture and rugs.

More Rain Due To Keep Hub Cool

The rain that broke the back of a new wave of high humidity before it could get rolling is expected to continue fitfully today and tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the temperature ranged within the 70's and the weatherman said he saw no immediate threat of uncomfortable heat. Other parts of the country were less fortunate.

In Erie, Pa., 75 families were homeless after a rainfall of 9.03 inches in 24 hours which flooded parts of the city and caused damage estimated at $1,000,000. Hail mixed with rain produced drifts of slush 18 inches deep in Pepper Pike, a village near Cleveland, O.

An unseasonable coolness descended on Tennessee and Kentucky, where temperatures as low as 53 and 47 degrees were recorded. In the western corn zone a low of 33 was registered.

Probation Officer Gets Mental Test In Wife-Beating

John L. Delay, for 18 years probation officer at East Cambridge Court and former State commander of the American Legion, pleaded not guilty in that same court today to a charge of assault and battery on his wife, Margaret, and agreed to undergo a period of observation at Metropolitan State Hospital, Waltham.

Judge Gardner W. Russell, Nantucket, assigned to the case by Judge Arthur P. Stone, presiding justice at East Cambridge Court, continued the case to Aug. 4. Delay was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Judge Russell and had been bailed in $5000 double surety.

In court when he voluntarily agreed to the observation period after conferences at the bench and in the judge's lobby, was Mrs. Margaret Delay, the defendant's wife, sobbing bitterly. Not in court was their 5-year-old son, John, Jr.

Shortly before he was arraigned, Delay announced he was quitting his job and asked for retirement at half pay. The request was filed with Judge Stone. Delay's annual pay was $4380.

Delay denied the charges today and issued a prepared statement in which he declared no blows had been struck and that he was innocent of the assault charge.

"My wife ran out of the house in an apparently hysterical condition," he said, "while I was preparing breakfast in the kitchen. I haven't seen her since and knew nothing of the special court session until an Arlington policeman came and picked me up on a warrant."

The arrest followed a special session of East Cambridge court called by Presiding Justice Arthur P. Stone who, because the case involved one of his own court officers, assigned Judge Gardner W. Russell of Nantucket to hear the case. Judge Russell issued the arrest warrant, according to Court Clerk Charles T. Cavanagh, and will preside at Delay's arraignment.

Mrs. Delay, who is said to have been ill for some time, charged that her husband had beaten her in their home early Tuesday morning, and that the beating was only one of a series he had administered.

Neighbors who heard the disturbance in the Delay home called Arlington police, who accompanied Mrs. Delay to the special court session.

After his release on bail, Delay spent the night at his home, but his wife and their 5-year-old son, John, Jr., stayed overnight with friends.

$100,000 Bail Holds Pair For 6 Weeks Crime Wave

Two men arrested after a police raid of their weapon-stocked room in Magnolia st., Dorchester, were arraigned in Charlestown court today on armed robbery charges which detectives said climaxed a six-weeks series of holdups of taxicab drivers, liquor stores and a coat company.

The defendants, Charles Martin, 26, a Brockton iceman, and Daniel J. Goodwin, 25, a Dorchester welder, still face questioning by Somerville authorities in connection with the slaying of Patrolman Michael J. Dowd, fatally wounded June 12 during the hold-up of a liquor store.

Martin and Goodwin waived examination and pleaded not guilty to armed robbery, kidnapping and several lesser charges and were held for the grand jury by Judge John M. Gilmore in bail of $50,000 each.

Both were charged with the $170 holdup of a Medford st., Charlestown, liquor store, and with the armed robbery and kidnapping of Edward Bryson of Hemingway st., Boston, a taxicab driver. Police told the court that Bryson was locked up in the trunk of his own cab while the two defendants drove it around.

Martin and Goodwin also were charged with using a car without authority and operating after their licenses had been suspended. Martin had additional charges of carrying a gun and a knife against him.

Despite the serious charges against them and their admissions of many of the crimes, police said the pair laughed heartily today in the headquarters lineup as they helped one of their holdup victims identify them.

Martin and Goodwin were confronted by Charles Abrams of Dorchester. He looked them over at length but told police he couldn't identify them as the pair who robbed him of $70 and a wrist watch.

Laughing aloud, one of the defendants stepped forward, police reported, and announced to Abrams, "we know you." He then described in detail the manner of the holdup and the victim agreed, "that's exactly how it happened."

Another holdup victim, Louis Novack of the Western Coal Co., Westwood st., Dorchester, positively identified the pair as the gunman who robbed him of between $5000 and $7000 last month. Again, the two suspects laughed.

"All we got from you was $61," one of them said.

Several girl clerks who were recent holdup victims also viewed the pair in the lineup but were unable to identify them.

Police arrested Martin and Goodwin yesterday after raiding the Dorchester room registered in Martin's name where they

3 New Links Tighten Net On Yacht Pair

By JAMES PADGITT

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 23 (INS)—Three more links of evidence today drew the net tighter around Beulah Louise Overell, 18, and George "Bud" Gollum, 21, the sweethearts the State charges slew her wealthy father and mother.

From a criminologist the State ranks as its star witness came blow after blow of telling evidence against the couple.

Ray H. Pinker, Los Angeles police department's ace detective, testified that:

1—Bloodstains on the planking of the dynamited family yacht in which Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell were slain had been drying for at least 20 minutes before the boat sank.

2—Bloodstains found on the clothes worn by Gollum on that day were found to be of Type A blood, the same as that of both Mr. and Mrs. Overell.

3—Tape found in Gollum's car was identical with tape used in securing the dynamite in the home-made time bomb that blasted the yacht in Newport Harbor last March 15.

Thus the state pounded home further its contention that the Overells were bludgeoned to death and the yacht blown up to erase traces of the crime.

Pinker was shown the piece of yacht planking on which the bloodstains were found.

Special Prosecutor Williams asked him:

"Did you find stains on this planking?"

"Yes," Pinker replied, "but I could not determine whether they were human or animal stains."

RAIL CRASH KILLS 11—Eleven Germans were killed and 12 injured today in a railroad accident on the South bridge.

The victims, clinging outside a crowded train, were killed from their positions by another train.

TURKEY STEAKS FOR U. S. MENUS

CLEVELAND, July 23 (AP)

—Turkey steaks with all the trappings of beef steaks will replace the traditional roasted bird on the American dinner table if the National Turkey Federation has its way.

First public showing was made today at the International Baby Chick Ass'n and Poultry and Egg National Board convention.

Turkey steaks are a development of the research division of the Texas A. and M. College and Dr. F. Z. Beaubien, who will demonstrate how to feed the turkey meat into a grinder from which it emerges as four-to-six-ounce steaks.

The new steaks will permit turkey growers to produce 28-to-44-pound birds the large for the average American oven, and turkey growers predict future turkeys the size of ostriches will eventually be grown.

Lt. James V. Crowley said the pair met while serving terms in Concord Reformatory.

QUAKE IN PUERTO RICO

WESTON, July 23 (AP)—An earthquake of "moderate intensity" was recorded at the Boston College seismograph station today, its center probably in Puerto Rico.

Mother and son were rescued by firemen, who brought them down a ladder after the mother's nightclothing had become aflame.

The husband, Frank P. Milello, pulled to safety his daughter, Josephine, 8, whose nightclothing also had caught fire. He found he trapped in a bedroom. Milello also rescued a son, Anthony, 5.

Neighbors called the fire department when they were aroused by the screams of Mrs. Milello, who was at a window with the baby in her arms.

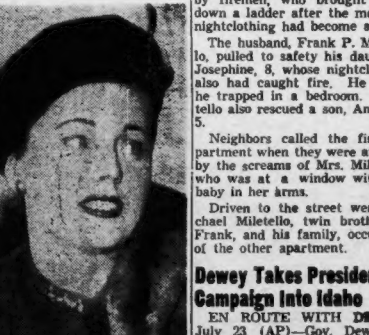

Driven to the street were Michael Milello, twin brother of Frank, and his family, occupants of the other apartment.

Dewey Takes Presidency Campaign Into Idaho

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY, July 23 (AP)—Gov. Dewey of New York pushed his Republican presidential nomination campaign into Idaho today after an overnight stay at a dude ranch at Jenny Lake, Wyo. The first scheduled stop was Idaho Falls.

Extra R. Whitt of Idaho and vice chairman of the Republican national committee has stated Dewey is "leading in Idaho, as he is in every other state." Idaho will have 11 delegates at the 1948 national convention.

Head Divorced

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 23 —Testimony of blonde Roberta Rodriguez, Beverly Hills fashion model, that her young husband, Abelardo Louis Rodriguez, Jr., 28, aviator-son of the former President of Mexico, was an incorrigible playboy, won her a divorce decree in local probate court.

She testified they were married Dec. 5, 1945, and separated last March 24.

"He was always going off to Mexico in his airplane," the attractive model told the court. "He would say that he'd be gone a week or 10 days, but would stay away for a couple of months."

"He was not the marrying kind," she testified, adding that he wasn't in any business, but had a small, private income, just "enough so he could play."

After World War II, during which he was twice reported lost in overseas air combat and which he termed a "huge mistake," the playboy flier was employed as a test pilot at the local plant of the North American Aviation Co.

Girl, 15, Signs Film Contract at $250 a Week

LOS ANGELES, July 23 (AP)—Peggy McIntire, who began her film career at four and at 15 is one of Hollywood's youngest character actresses, had her first long-term contract approved in superior court. It's for seven years with RKO Radio Studios, starts at $250 a week and progresses to $2500 a week. Judge Frank G. Swain directed her to invest 12 per cent of her earnings in government bonds.

Alaska Posse Closes In On Double Murder Suspect

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 23 (INS)—A heavily armed posse, following a trail of dead dogs, torn clothing and empty ammunition boxes, closed in warily on a sharpshooting double murder suspect.

The posse, hacking through Alaska wilderness 150 miles southeast of Fairbanks, carried two first degree murder warrants returned in connection with the ax-slaying of two men at Little Geratyle river. The warrants named Leon Jones, 43, Big Delta airbase carpenter.

DeBartolo Term Cut But Full Vindication Sought

Friends of PFC Michael A. DeBartolo of Squantum today renewed their battle to win him complete vindication following receipt of the news that an Army Board of Review had cut from life to 10 years the sentence imposed in Italy.

The 22-year-old youth had been found guilty of deserting his Army unit during the war, despite his testimony that his mind had blanked out during the raging battle of Casino.

Confirmation of this sentence reduction was obtained from DeBartolo's counsel, former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly and former Asst. Dist. Atty. Timothy J. Murphy, who said they had just received the notice from the Army judge-advocate in Washington.

Kelly, as spokesman, declared that the fight to free young DeBartolo and clear his name is continuing, however, and on next Tuesday he and Murphy will present "further evidence and arguments" to the board of review in the capital.

"We don't intend to rest," Kelly stated, "until this boy is returned to his family. The outcome would have been greatly different if he trial had been held in this country."

The young soldier's stepmother, Mrs. Connie H. DeBartolo, who recently moved the rest of her family from 19 Orchard st., Squantum, to 56 Standard st., Dorchester was overjoyed when informed of the sentence reduction.

"Isn't that wonderful!" she exclaimed. "I think it's grand. He's innocent and I know he'll be out free some day."

Mrs. DeBartolo said she last heard from the soldier four days ago in a letter from Italy dated July 6.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 23 (AP)—Police are searching the environs of Film Producer Joe Pasternak's home for $20,000 to $25,000 in missing jewelry, which Det. Lt. D. R. Beckwith said apparently had been playfully scattered about the yard by the Pasternaks' four-year-old son Michael.

From $10,000 to $20,000 worth already have been found in shrubbery, Beckwith said, but still missing are a star ruby ring, a square cut diamond engagement ring, and a diamond-set wrist-watch.

Vet Groups Pledge No Letup In Fight for Military Training

By DAN MARKEL

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 23—Veterans' forces battling for universal military training will not adjourn their drive when Congress goes home. "We are going to pound right straight through on this vital security issue until UMT is on the statute books," Col. John Thomas Taylor, national legislative director of the American Legion, declared.

"Disabled American veterans won't slow down when they can't win victory ahead," Francis M. Sullivan, national DAV legislative representative, tersely commented.

"Veterans of Foreign Wars can't carry the fight where it counts the most—the home territory of every Senator and Representative," said Omar B. Kethum, national VFW legislative director.

A vote on universal military training in the House or Senate has been blocked for this session, but the House armed services sub-committee has favorably reported H.R. 4278, a re-draft of its original bill, H.R. 4121.

The full armed services committee is scheduled to report on the re-drafted bill Friday, with Congress expected to adjourn the following day.

"For the first time a congressional committee has given the country a complete bill. Patriotic organizations of America are united in urging its prompt passage," Taylor declared.

"Home forces of the American Legion will intensify their campaign for national strength and security in every community and congressional district in the land."

"They know America's alert citizenry is with them and that the nation's existence may depend on early UMT enactment."

Taylor predicted Congress would return to Washington next winter eager to enact a training program.

Additional support for the UMT measure came from Warren Atherton, of Stockton, Cal., national chairman of the Republican Veterans League.

"I have talked with Republican veterans recently in 28 states," Atherton said. "They want universal military training to insure the safety of our country."

"They know that many persons who want to keep this country weak are willing that Russia maintain a mighty military system."

Senate Votes U. S. Science Foundation

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS)

The Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill to create a 24-member independent national science foundation to promote basic scientific research.

Before adopting the report, the Senate rejected 46 to 38 a motion by Sen. Morse, (R.) of Oregon, to postpone action on the legislation until the 80th Congress returns for the second session next January.

Marshall Lost in Town of Frederick

FREDERICK, Md., July 23 (AP)—An automobile with District of Columbia tags pulled to the curb and a silver-haired man leaned out to hail newspaper publisher William T. Delaplaine.

"I've been lost in this town an hour," the man said, asking directions to the home of a Frederick friend, Col. Harrison McAlpine.

"With pleasure, general," said Delaplaine, recognizing the motorist as Sec. of State Marshall.

After setting him on the right road, the publisher remarked:

"You have a big job on your hands, general."

"If I don't do any better than I did driving the street of Frederick, I won't do so well," said the Sec. of State with a grin as he drove away.

U. S. Gold Hoarding Gives Economic Boost to Russia

By RAY RICHARDS

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 23—Britain and other countries are actively employing gold at a true currency exchange value of $79.50 an ounce while the United States is storing gold uselessly, according to private reports from London to Washington.

The effect is to place the United States at terrific economic disadvantage.

The reports came in messages to British news correspondents and in information bulletins to clients by brokerage and insurance firms of England.

Speculation arose here as to whether Britain is using withdrawals from the American loan for heavy gold purchases at the official rate of $35 an ounce, knowing that the World Bank must soon revise currency parities to give gold its realistic value.

Gold at an actual value of $79.50 is working tremendously to the benefit of Russia, where the government monopoly is mining rich gold deposits at a production cost of $6 an ounce.

While the Marshall plan for the rehabilitation of Europe remains little more than a statement of hope, the London reports say Russia has "rapidly completed a network of far-reaching plans for mutual supply and currency exchange which practically establishes an eastern bloc obviously conceived in rivalry to the Marshall plan."

The London sources say the British board participating in the present Soviet-British trade and currency discussions is becoming convinced the Soviet government is seeking a British-Russian treaty merely to disrupt the bloc of western European countries which might come under the Marshall plan.

Marriage of Princess Bess In October Seen Regal Affair

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—The government let it be known today that Princess Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten would be married in a big public ceremony after all.

Spiking speculation that the wedding would have to be a small, semi-private affair because of the nation's poverty, a high government source said it was now definitely known the ceremony would be in Westminster Abbey and "certainly won't be on austerity times."

The source added that the Royal Family and the government now were "more strongly than ever" in favor of October for the wedding. Previously there had been some indication it might be delayed until winter or spring.

"It's unlikely all the peers will be required to wear their robes and paraphernalia," the source said, "because the things just aren't about any more. The moths have been in them."

The privy council will meet July 31 to give formal assent to the marriage, it was announced today. This is the traditional body which advises the king on certain matters of state. Members from Canada, Australia and New Zealand are expected to attend the July 31 meeting.

Drivers Picket Taunton Bus Line

TAUNTON, July 23 — Picket lines were maintained today outside the bus terminal of the Interstate Transportation Co., following the announcement that nine of the company's bus drivers had voted to strike at a union meeting.

Pickets carried signs charging the management with being unfair to its help. No trouble was reported however, despite the fact that Ashley B. Childs, president of the company, and Harold J. Dooley, treasurer, climbed into the driver's seat to operate two of the buses. Childs son and garage men were helping out in the driving.

The strike has been in effect

since last Thursday, when an operator was discharged for missing a trip, and later with insubordination.

Vet Asks Adequate Housing As Barrier to Communism

Special to the Boston Evening American

SANTA BARBARA, July 23—Fight Communism with private housing within the reach of the veteran's pocket-book, Frank D. Scriven, state commander of the American Veterans of World War II, advised a housing conference here. Speaking at the American Legion-sponsored two-day meeting on the housing shortage, Scriven made the following points:

1—Privately constructed dwellings are preferable to public housing because the latter system "helps to develop a socialistic form of government of which none of us is proud."

2—Labor should help reduce the total cost of dwelling by removing noncompetent workmen from its ranks.

3—Real estate salesmen should block inflationary prices by refusing to list homes at prices beyond those bringing the seller a reasonable profit.

Addressing the delegates representing all phases of the housing industry from the manufacture of a nail to delivery of a sales talk, Scriven said:

"People are made susceptible to the teaching of Communism by being poorly housed."

"We need 100,000 low rent housing units in this state right now. Their creation would be a strong means of fighting those elements which attempt to promote principles of government antagonistic to our own."

"After the last war, Hitler came to power in Germany as a result of the leadership he presented to the inadequately housed veterans."

"We pose the problem of whether we are subjected to a new form of government by virtue of the complete failure of private enterprise in the house construction industry to do its job, or whether we will recognize our problem, cope with it, meet it and lick it."

Declaring buyer resistance has made itself felt in the real estate market, Scriven continued:

"I don't think you would find thousands of houses standing empty now if they had been priced right and the owners had not been anxious to ask for them everything that the tariff would bear."

Boy Saves Chum As Boat Upsets

Clifford George, 12, of Winthrop st., Winthrop, today owed his life to a young neighbor, Joseph Ciampa, 14, of Cross st., who rescued him from drowning a mile off the Winthrop shore.

The boys were returning from a long sail around Boston harbor when their 22-foot sailboat overturned, entangling both in gear and lines.

Ciampa freed himself and then pulled young George from beneath the floating sail. Next, he fished out life preservers from the cap-sized boat, put one around the younger boy and towed him the long way to shore.

John H. Holland Services Thursday

The funeral of John Henry Holland of Lake st., Arlington, will be held tomorrow from the Crosby Memorial Chapel, Beacon st., Boston, with a high mass of requiem at 9 a. m. at St. Cecilia's Church, Belvidere st., Back Bay. Burial will be in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Arlington.

Holland, who died Monday after a long illness, leaves three sons, C. Edward, of Belmont, executive city editor of the Boston Daily Record; George of Natick and Frederick of Dedham, and two daughters, Mrs. Peter F. Costello of Brighton and Mrs. Edwin Wragger of Arlington.

Hearst Scribe Honored By Vet Group

Special to the Boston American
NEW YORK, July 23—Brig.
Gen. Donald B. Adams, national president of the Reserve Officers
Ass'n of America presented a scroll to Harry H. Schlacht, writer for the Hearst newspapers,
for his editorial on national security.

During the presentation, Gen.
Adams expressed his deep appreciation to the Hearst newspapers for their invaluable support in furthering national security.

The scroll reads:
"Whereas, the Reserve Officers Ass'n has sponsored National Security Week for many years, and,

"Whereas, Feb. 12 to 22, 1947, was the first observance of National Security Week since World War II, and,

"Whereas, Harry H. Schlacht, editorial writer for the Hearst newspapers, has clearly and definitely set forth the ideals of a lasting peace and the methods by which such peace can be obtained in his editorial of Feb. 13, 1947, now, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the Reserve Officers Ass'n of America through its national executive committee extend to Harry H. Schlacht, its highest commendation for his clear insight, vivid form of expression and patriotic motives."

Schlacht thanked the members present in behalf of himself and the Hearst newspapers and assured them the Hearst papers would continue their crusade for a greater and nobler America.

Freak Accident Kills Baby Boy

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—David Chisholm, three months old, was fatally injured after he was thrown from his buggy in an apartment building elevator and fell 20 feet through a six-inch opening between the elevator floor and the shaft.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Phoebe Chisholm, had wheeled him in his carriage into the building elevator and as the operator started upward the handle of the buggy caught under the handle of the elevator door. The buggy was tipped downward and the child rolled out.

Before the elevator could be stopped the infant rolled through the opening and fell to the basement.

BOY BIKER KILLED

DARIEN, Ct., July 23 (AP)—Walter Harris, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris, was killed instantly, Police Lt. Frank Standing said, when a bicycle he was riding veered into the rear wheel of a passing truck.

Blood Donors Rush To Aid Ailing Baby

Prompt response to an appeal for blood donors resulted today in the announcement that Carol DeLosa, 10-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeLosa of Waltham, was recovering at the Floating Hospital, where she is under treatment for an intestinal disorder.

The child was stricken five days ago at the Chardon st. home, where she and her mother and three others of the DeLosa's six children were being cared for, after the family had been evicted from their Waltham home last August.

DeLosa, a World War II veteran, is working at a Waltham foundry. The other two children are being boarded out. The father said he expects to get new living quarters for the family in Waltham next month.

Farm Bureau Ups Corn Crop Estimate

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS) —The Agriculture Dept. upped its July 1 corn crop estimate by 158,000,000 bushels but the expected yield is still well below the 3,000,000,000 bushel goal for 1947.

The department's mid-month report said the anticipated harvest is now 2,771,000,000 bushels and attributed the sharp improvement in prospects to "uniformly good corn weather."

SOMEHOW the sky seems bluer and the sun shines brighter when you and this Buick are enjoying the day together.

SOMEHOW the sudden summer shower seems more of a lark, less of a bother, when it's pattering on the snug shelter this tidy number throws up automatically at your touch on a control.

SOMEHOW autumn air is more winey, swirling winter snows more fun when your choice is a Buick — and a Convertible as tight and all-weather-ready as this one.

Maybe it's because your style sense tells you these sleek lines and this rich treatment are going to stay the fairest of the automotive fair.

Maybe it's because you find, in the big Fireball straight-eight under your treadle foot, an ever-ready, ever-lively companion-in-adventure that acknowledges no peer for life and lift and velvet-smoothness.

It could be the rare and pleasurable steadiness given an open car by good, solid Buick construction. It could be, simply, that here at last you find size and ability and smartness and finish to match your dreams of a perfect travel mate.

All we know is that this is one of the standout favorites in a line of cars that stands out as the most wanted in America.

So when good friends come to us asking, "How do I get one of those snappy Buick Convertibles?" our full and forthright answer is always the same:

Sign up for one, sir — soon as you can. The sooner we have your firm order for one, the sooner you start climbing up our customer list.

And we promise you: You'll mount that ladder equally fast whether or not you have a car to trade.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—How long should the asparagus tops be allowed to grow after we stop cutting?

A—The tops should be allowed to grow as late into the fall as they stay green. This perennial crop is now storing up food for next year. Give it some complete fertilizer to help it along.

Q—Our delphinium leaves are curling up and turning yellow.

A—This condition may be caused by either aphids or mites, probably mites. Spray at once with nicotine and continue until they are cleared up.

Q—Some pine trees that we have set near the shore are turning brown. Is this natural?

A—Excessive wind may cause this damage as well as salt spray. Pines that turn brown late in the summer will not make much growth.

Q—How can I make the soil acid for azaleas?

A—Fertilizers for acid-loving plants should be made up to suit soil conditions. First add peat moss, then mix the following materials—one pound sulphate of ammonia, three pounds acid phosphate, two pounds sulphate of potash, one pound aluminum sulphate and three pounds of cottonseed meal. This makes an acid fertilizer. Apply at the rate of three pounds per 100 sq. ft.

Q—Should an old strawberry bed be fertilized after picking?

A—If you intend to carry it over for another year, it should be cleaned out and fertilized.

Sister Kenny Foundation Acquires N. Y. Estate

GLEN COVE, N. Y., July 23 (AP)—Sale of Poplar Hill, 35-acre shore-front estate of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Pratt to the New York chapter of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation for use as a convalescent home for after-care of infantile paralysis victims, was announced.

The purchase price was not revealed but the assessed value of the estate is $226,000.

STAYS ON JOB

Temporary Mayor John B. Hyman is going vacationless this year.

Hyman declared that he believed that the Legislature, in designating him for the job during Mayor Curley's term in jail, intended him to stay on the job during the needed period. He said he would get his rest week-end at his summer home in Seaside.

HAIL-DRIFTS BLOCK AUTOS

CLEVELAND, July 23 (AP)—Automobiles were stuck temporarily in haildrifts in some parts of the Cleveland area today as a November-in-July storm struck with unexpected fury.

32 Marines Found Dn on Peak

LONGMIRE, Wash., July 23 (INS)—Melting snow yielded what the Navy tentatively identified as the broken, weather-wasted bodies of 32 Marines killed Dec. 10 when their transport plane crashed into 14,400-foot Mount Rainier.

Discovery of the wreckage at a 10,000-foot elevation was made by Asst. Chief Ranger Bill Butler from an observation point on a ridge. The National Park ranger confirmed his discovery in a phonographic flight over rugged Solomona Glacier.

Reps, professional guides and military personnel were hastily mustered at the base of the mountain and prepared to start at 11 a. m. on a hazardous climb to the scene.

Rat vs. Cat

Lunch Ready?—A little drama is unfolded at Coral Gables, Fla., with a rat and cat the principals. Here, it looks like lunch is about to be served, what with the cat awaiting the appearance of the rodent and the sticking-out of rat's inquisitive snout. Ah, but there's more to come. See below . . .

Bold, That's All—On seeing, by instinct, most likely, that the cat is no professional mouser, the rodent boldly parades from its "home," gets up on its hind legs and defiantly faces the feline. But, it seems the cat has no desire to tangle with a swashbuckler with this kind of nerve. So . . . below . . .

And the Winner!—Satisfied that he has at least won a moral victory, the challenger gives the "champ" the back of his—er—hand . . . and goes back to his private subway to boast of his boldness to his friends in facing its natural enemy. And so ends the three-picture play; with the underdog on top.

Tall is the Corn—W. B. Gray, Tyler, Tex. oil man, stands on a 17-foot ladder to examine his corn crop. The corn is grown in a small plot near Gray's home as a hobby. The tallest stalk measures 17 feet in height.

Raft Burned—Ludwig Michigan wagon

The 20-man experimental life raft, called "the covered wagon," proceeds toward Mich., at the head of a flotilla of 11 rafts crossing Lake Michigan. The crossing was a success, but that "the covered wagon" was burned 20 miles away from its destination as a "navy."

OUT OF STEP WITH SOLONS

THE MANNER in which President Truman is out of step with Congress is a political fact of outstanding significance.

Although his party was vigorously rebuked by the people at the polls last November, Mr. Truman, with the nuisance value of the veto power, undertakes to deprive the voters of the fulfillment of their mandate to put the nation's economic house in order.

When he does not ignore the wishes of the Congressional majority with a veto, he sometimes discredits laws which he accepts by accompanying his signature with verbal castigation.

This procedure occurred in connection with the recent modification of rent ceilings and earlier with the Second OPA Bill.

Mr. Truman went even further in rejecting the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management bill, which was subsequently repassed over his veto.

In that instance, he interfered with constitutional processes by attacking the bill in language of extraordinary violence.

IT WOULD SEEM at first blush that the lack of harmony between the President and Congress comes from the fact that the new Congressional majority is composed of members of the opposite political party.

But the fact of a Democratic President and a Republican Congress does not fully explain the lack of co-operation and good will.

For it will be recalled that Mr. Truman was also irritable with the 79th Congress, which was controlled in both houses by members of the Democratic Party.

Yet the President fussed and fumed continuously with the last Democratic Congress.

He vetoed its labor measure—the Case Bill—and also the first OPA Extension Bill, and continuously berated the solons for not following his collectivist "social" program.

As a result of his lack of touch with the trend of popular thinking and sentiment in the post-armistice period, Mr. Truman was as ineffective with the 79th Congress, which was Democratic, as he is with the 80th, which is Republican.

As a matter of fact, there was such open revolt against the ideologies which Mr. Truman followed that working control of the 79th Congress swung to a coalition between Jeffersonian anti-New Deal Democrats and Republicans.

That the coalition was in tune with public opinion was demonstrated beyond peradventure in the election results on November 5th last.

THE REASON for Mr. Truman's aloofness from the trend of popular thought is that he is insulated at the White House by a palace guard of collectivist advisers, on the one hand, and by the demands of minority pressure groups, such as the CIO-PAC on the other.

There is also the related motive of making the Truman Administration appear to be sufficiently radical to discourage the launching of a leftist third party.

This attitude is based on the assumption that a new party would divert sufficient New Deal votes to make the election of a Republican President fairly certain in 1948.

Thus, Mr. Truman delays the timing of post-war economic reconstruction by his nuisance value, which comes from a constitutional technicality.

In a parliamentary country, the Chief Executive would have been expected to resign as soon as his party lost control of the legislative body.

But under our constitutional setup, it will be necessary for the people to put up with Mr. Truman's delays until the Presidential election in November, 1948.

Then it will be feasible to bring both the legislative and executive departments of the Federal Government into tempo with the prevailing mood of the American people.

Two birds within one nest,
Two hearts within one breast
Two spirits in one fair,
Firm leaps of love and prayer,
Together bound for aye,
Together blest.
An ear that waits to catch,
A hand upon the latch,
A step that hastens its sweet
rest to win.
A world of care without,
A world of strife shut out,
A world of love shut in.

NEW YORK CITY is a great place for longevity. Particularly for natives. The number of very elderly people who have lived in the big town all their lives is amazing. I don't know what makes New York so healthy. It can't be the climate. Even the animals live long there. Take Pete, the Bronx Zoo hippo. He was born in Central Park in 1903. He is now 44 years of age. This is the longevity record for zoo hippos.

PASSING BY: Percy Wenrich, Veteran song composer.

Among the innumerable ditties for which Percy wrote the music are "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" and the popular World War I song "Where Do We Go From Here?"

Luisa Rainer, The versatile Viennese. I think her best film part was as Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld." Remember it? Right now Luisa is one of the innumerable actresses playing the part of Joan of Arc on the summer theater circuit.

PLEASE NOTE: In New York City and environs, maids and cooks are now being paid $35 a week and room and board. That is the minimum. Many of the household queens are paid more. Am informed there is one maid and cook in Westchester who receives $100 a week plus room and board.

WACS AND WAVES: The average WAVE is much prettier than the average WAC. As the educational requirements for becoming a WAVE are much higher than those required for WAC. The WAVES are generally more intelligent and a "higher class" of girls than the WACS. That's what the WAVES claim.

When confronted with these statements, the WACS say a war is not "a beauty contest." They point out the nearest the WAVES got to overseas operations was at Hawaii. On the other hand, the WACS served in every theater of the war.

The WACS further state most WAVES didn't enlist for patriotic reasons but because they liked the way they looked in uniform and wanted to meet a lot of men. The rivalry between the feminine branches of the armed services appears rather bitter. It was once suggested the WACS and WAVES meet in athletic contests. This idea is said to have been abandoned for fear most of the games would end in hair pulling contests.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Has there ever been a song about a girl named Lillian? A—Never heard of one. My sister's name is Lillian and in my early youth I knew so many girls named Lillian I later thought of writing a book "The Lillians in My Life." Maybe I'll write a song with a Lillian for a heroine and let it go at that. Q—A blonde born under the sign of Libra has me guessing. What'll I do? A—Keeping men guessing is a characteristic of Libra. (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) females. They enjoy doing this and are clever at it. The only thing to do is not to strain your mind guessing. Just relax. She will tip her hand by some revealing action sooner or later. Or so say the stargazers.

BUBBLE GUM: "As for bubble gum being something new," writes a New Yorker, "I am 82 years old. Seventy-two years ago I went to the Fifth street school, Manhattan, and in a nearby candy shop bought bubble gum. For blowing bubble gum in class the teacher made me stay after school and write 50 words, no two alike. I hated spelling. That's why I remember bubble gum."

UNUSUAL PICTURE: An unusually interesting news picture was that of Margaret Napoleon of Hawaii at the governors' convention at Salt Lake City, presenting Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan with a lei and at the same time giving His Excellency a kiss. Margaret appears to have handled the osculation with enthusiasm. The photo reveals her eyes are closed. I thought the closed-eye type of kiss was reserved for sweethearts on moonlight strolls and husbands on wedding anniversaries. However, I see no reference in our Horses & Women files to this angle and have ordered an immediate investigation.

MONIVERSARY: A resident of Hollywood, Cal., says she and her happy husband have just celebrated their 176th "moniversity." They celebrate the day on which they became one every month. Gifts are exchanged and then with their two children they go out to dinner and a show and have quite a party.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

FEW EVENTS in the conduct of our foreign policy are more important than the abrogation—called "revision" euphemistically—of JCS 1067, the official order implementing the barbarous Morgenthau plan. It took the government two years to rid itself of this costly horror. It took a detailed investigation and constant hammering by Herbert Hoover before Mr. Truman finally decided that the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan mean nothing and must fail as long as JCS 1067 continues to be the controlling policy in Europe.

The Morgenthau plan sought to reduce Germany to a pastoral waste. It was premised on hate and revenge, to be projected into peacetime Europe and to be continued forever.

It made revenge an instrument of national policy. It has been called a Carthaginian peace.

Actually, its continuance would have bled the United States white, for it threw upon this country the burden of caring for a people who can care for themselves, of providing them with food they can grow themselves and machinery which they can make themselves.

It reduced Germany to penury, and might have pauperized us by giving justification to European exactions.

HERBERT HOOVER devoted much of his report on Germany to an analysis and denunciation of JCS 1067. He said:

"We can keep Germany in these economic chains, but it will also keep Europe in rags."

He denounced Morgenthau's illusions in such terms:

"There is the illusion that the new Germany left after the annexations can be reduced to a 'pastoral state.' It cannot be done unless we exterminate or move 25,000,000 people out of it. This would approximately reduce Germany to the density of the population of France."

He asked the extremely pertinent question as to how long the American taxpayer can continue to stand the strain of the heavy contributions to Germany. He said:

"... The United States, through loans, lend-lease, surplus supplies, and relief, in the last two years, has spent, or pledged itself to spend, over fifteen billions of dollars in support of civilians in foreign countries. Even if we do not have the resources for, nor can our taxpayers bear, a continuation of burdens at such a rate."

"There is only one path to recovery in Europe. That is production. The whole economy of Europe is in a state of stagnation. It is only through the exchange of raw materials and manufactured goods. The productivity of Europe cannot be restored without the restoration of Germany as a contributor to that productivity."

ALL THIS is worth recalling because it is difficult to understand how our government could continue this costly and self-defeating policy so long. Perhaps the reason was the fear of opposition in New York and other large cities where articulate and vocal groups devote themselves to a permanent hatred of Germany with the object of confusing the realistic issues that have grown out of the war. National policy cannot be based upon such considerations.

At any rate, JCS 1067 is no more. In the State Department—a group of officials fought hard to keep this monstrosity alive. Some of them had originally been in the Treasury when Henry Morgenthau, as, for instance, Charles P. Kindleberger, chief of the economic desk of the German section.

As recently as last May, Walter Waikinsaw of the State Department officially denied that JCS 1067 was any longer binding. Yet on July 15, 1947, his own government renounces it in this language:

"An orderly and prosperous Europe requires the contributions of a stable and productive Germany, as well as the necessary restraints to insure that Germany is not allowed to revive its destructive militarism."

At times one desk in the State Department does not seem to know what some other desk is actually doing about policy. Certainly, the group that fought to continue the Morgenthau plan was not serving the publicly stated policies of their President and their own Secretary of State.

They were serving a little group of wild men who in the Roosevelt Administration believed that they could remake the world by vengeance.

The sun has risen a little over Europe because, driven by desperate necessity, the government of the United States has finally rid itself of the last vestiges of the Morgenthau plan.

HOLLYWOOD, July 23—David Selznick's raid on Italian talent has not only produced Valli, the beauty from Rome, but in September he is bringing over Mario Soldati, who claimed in Europe as the greatest director Italy has ever produced.

What I don't know about Signor Soldati would fill this column on account of his pictures have not been released over here. But I must say his record is impressive. He is a two-time winner of the Venice festival award and the most recent recipient of the European counterpart of the American Oscar.

Soldati is already at work on an original screenplay to co-star Valli and Louis Jourdan. Directing Valli will not be a new experience since he guided her in the prize-winning "Little Ancient World." I might add that he speaks English perfectly—which will come in handy.

LANNY ROSS, who for 27 months has been a member of General MacArthur's staff in Japan, is scheduled to sing at the Hollywood Bowl Aug. 2. While here Lanny will discuss a movie.

He made "Stagecoach Canteen" in 1943, and 10 years ago did a series of pictures for Paramount. Funny thing is that Lanny, who has a gorgeous singing voice, didn't do too well on the screen. I've always thought it was because of the film material given him. In today's musical comedy he would be excellent.

THE NEWS that Shirley Temple expects a baby calls for a change in both "Mary Hagen," the Warner picture she is now making, and "War Party," which she still says she'll do for John Ford. STrenuous swimming sequences in "Mary Hagen" will be toned down, and in "War Party" the horseback riding scheduled for the former baby star is out.

"Shirley finishes 'Mary Hagen' Aug. 4, and will immediately join the John Ford Company. Her husband, John, who's already there and has started work on the first picture he is to make with her.

Ford was yet to be heard from as to whether or not he thought it advisable to go on with Shirley. But since it has been much advertised that Shirley and her husband were to make a picture together, John may want to continue with his original program.

MARIA MONTEZ tells me that when she sails for Europe Aug. 3 she's taking her 16-month-old daughter — "and," said Maria, "five boxes of food for her—all she'll need while we're there."

Joan Pierre Aumont, who's making a picture in England, said he missed Maria and their baby, so what does she do but pack up and decide to visit him. She'll stay two months and return in time to make "The Scarlet Feather" for Charles Rogers.

She's something, that Maria. Right now she's entertaining her father and mother-in-law, two sisters and a couple of other relatives—and loving it.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: All this much discussed criticism of Rita Hayworth and her treatment of the French newspapermen and women is really very strange. Rita is always so accessible and pleasant to American movie scribes.

As I understand it, she speaks only a few words of French and when the French correspondents met her and started jabbering, she became confused and walked away. She didn't know a word they were saying. She didn't mean to be temperamental or ungracious.

Rita was so upset over the criticism that for several days she wouldn't come out of the hotel, and when she did she burst into tears.

Van Heflin's pretty sister, Frances, comes here in a few days to rehearse for "Galileo." She'll be Charles Laughton's leading lady when it opens July 30. And Joe Rock opened Universal-International has received word from his daughter Felipa, who was educated in England, that she will join the Los Angeles "Skin of Our Teeth" company.

There are so many talented young people in Hollywood and all of them so ambitious. At the Circle Theatre Charlie Chaplin's boys, Charlie Jr. and Sidney; Edwin Schallert's son Bill, and Manny Robinson, Eddie Robinson's boy, are all doing fine jobs. Their new picture, "The Doe," opened last night and I hope to get there while it's running. I hear such wonderful things about this little theater.

Phyllis Calvert's husband, Peter Murray-Hill, is giving up acting entirely and going into the rare book business. He's just sold a big order to the Huntington library and he's done so well in that line of work that he's decided it's much more profitable than trailing along after his famous wife.

That reminds me that when Phyllis Calvert was quoted as saying she would make a picture with James Mason for morning, Mason is reported to have said, "that's very cute of her, but I'm not making a picture with her." But he did make one when they were in England.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Parkyakarkus welcomed his third son today: Martin Goch Broadway and Hollywood producer, and his wife, Joan Arliss, former Broadway actress, are calling it a day.

Lana Turner's house is for sale. She says she needs a larger one. Meanwhile, Tyrone Power has bought the Henry Hathaway home and will move in when he returns from Europe.

A cable from Merle Oberon from Cannes says she will be there 10 more days before going to Paris.

The change in the opening date of "Down to Earth" gave Rita Hayworth a chance to stay in London until Aug. 12. That won't make her mad, on account of David Niven, with whom she has a date, will be there. Just as soon as she can, she'll file for divorce from Orson Welles.

The William Goetzes leave for England in September. They will be the house guests of the J. Arthur Rank's and the Rank's, who were much entertained by the Goetzes in Hollywood, will see that Edith and Bill have a wonderful time.

Archie Mayo has asked Tony De Marco to stage the dance sequences for the life of Rudolph Valentino, which sounds as if it had been discussed under way.

The old Trocadero night club, which has been taken over by Monte Prosser, will be called the Trocaceana. Tony Martin will probably be the opening attraction.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bultinek are flying to Hollywood to be the house guests of Lucille and Hal Roach. He is the managing director of New York's St. Regis Hotel.

Carmen Miranda's sister, Aurora, who retired from the theatrical world when she married Gabriel Richman, is expecting a baby in August.

Ned Depinet, RKO biggie, became an uncle a few days ago. His sister-in-law, Julie Mary, who is married to Mrs. Depinet's brother, welcomed a baby. She is married to Ben Cammack, also with RKO.

Charlie Morrison gave a birthday party for Pat De Cicco at Mocambo and all of Pat's friends were there, including Joseph Schenck, the ex-Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and others. A Chanticleer twosome, and different, were Bob Walker and Jacqueline Dalya.

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: The biggest "war scandal" yet is in the making... High-placed New Deal figures are involved... The Andrew J. May case and the $35,000 which the Kentucky congressman is alleged to have received from the Brothers Garsen will by contrast seem picaresque... A onetime Greater Boston lawyer who once worked for the government is neck-deep in the newest "war scandal"... When the case is brought to trial it will be alleged that he accepted a remunerative postwar position with a mammoth industrial firm in exchange for "advice and services rendered" while acting in an official capacity in a $3,000,000 matter of alien property.

INVOLVED ALSO is a relative of a famous national legislator whose own integrity is unquestioned... The relative, also a lawyer... of very modest earning power... is charged with taking $150,000 as a fee for his influential services in making it possible for the industrial colossus to acquire, through extraordinary channels, which allegedly were open to him chiefly because of his relationship to the famous legislator, a property valued at millions... This legislator, incidentally, is a New Dealer from a so-called border state.

UNEARTHING OF THIS lush new instance of apparent graft in, or near, high places came about through information given to Gen. Homer Ferguson (R.) of Michigan... A public prosecutor of the Dewey type before he went to Washington, Sen. Ferguson was chosen as the man to follow through the whole distance in bringing the $3,000,000 item of alleged misfeasance to public attention... But the Michigan solon was pledged to deferring his demand for an official investigation until the notoriety of the case would be most effective politically against the Democrats... It might be advisable, therefore, to forecast the year 1948 as the time when the case will be ready for the headlines.

THE WASHINGTON GRAPEVINE carries the delightful tidings that our good neighbor to the North made too little fuss about trying the Russia-lovers who treasonably gave Moscow all they knew about the atom bomb... That particularly nasty piece of treason just possibly has changed the course of history, say some prominent persons who feel that Moscow was given the real A-bomb works.

HERE'S A CASE of Cupid being muddled by the housing shortage... Dr. James Wallace, the Revere medico associated with the Suffolk medical staff headed by Dr. Martin Spellman, and Miss Marion Lar-raive, also of Revere, are almost ready to announce the date of their fall wedding... But that date depends on another—the date on which a house which Dr. Wallace is building will be ready for occupancy.

THIS REPORTER had the pleasure of greeting a new cousin yesterday... Capt. Joe Ferrar, head of the Suffolk County police, made the presentation of the newly revealed kinsman... The Captain intercepted Cousin as he came through the main grandstand gate and so identified himself in answer to a query about his right to present a non-transferable "working press" card made in the name of the overgrown... Cousin, unfortunately, got the old leave-ho... Not only did we not happen to recall him, but Cousin didn't happen to know us by sight.

SINCLAIR LEWIS' new novel, "Kingsblood Royal," is advertised in Ebony, the interesting picture magazine devoted to the activities of American Negroes, as the story "of a man who resigned from the white race"... It must be quite a temptation at times, to more than the hero of the Lewis novel... Stories of the slave-making barbarism going on in parts of Europe, and knowledge of the headway made in this country by the vicious Reds and their dupes is depressing indeed... What—besides talk—in Congress going to do about these million-strong traitors? The Communist Party line calls for a third party in 1948! It is well to be aware of the objective.

WASHINGTON, July 23—Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of a fellow I have seen now and again around the Capitol, had lunch in the Senate restaurant the other day and absent-mindedly departed without paying her check. She remembered the oversight about half an hour later and hurried back to the eatery, all a-fluster.

She was explaining her faux pas to the cashier when a man behind her said: "I'll pay your check, lady."

Mrs. Taft swung around with a "how dare you, sir?" scowl on her usually beaming pan. But she never uttered the words. The impudent interloper turned out to be her husband, the distinguished senior senator from Ohio.

checks to hell out of the country, but a queen is kept waiting in the alleyway for luncheon. Uneasy may lie the head that wears a crown, but it's not as bad as having to wait around to be fed because all the room in the place is being taken up by commoners.

This is what happened to none other than Pennsylvania's dainty queen, nee Charlotte Stine. Arrayed in robes even more royal than robes worn by the noble ladies who ride elephants in the circus, the milk monarchess showed up at the Capitol to be the guest of Sen. Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania. She created quite a stir as she strode majestically through the marble halls.

The great carina was about to make a regal entrance but was stopped dead at the door by an anti-monarchist guardian of the portcullis, probably a spiritual descendant of Cromwell, who informed her there was no table available.

It seems that in all the excitement of the last minute legislation, Sen. Myers had forgotten to reserve sitting space for the queen. So she had to hang around until the peasants had been fed before being admitted. Call me early, mother—very. For I am to be queen of the dairy.

SEN. WAYNE MORSE of Oregon, who has been nicknamed "The Five O'Clock Shadow" because of his penchant for waiting until late afternoon to begin on a long harangue, kept trying to get the eye of President Tom Peterson Vandenberg along about quitting time the other day. Vandenberg knew that if he extended recognition they were due for a protracted ordeal of oral.

So in desperation he said: "The chair recognizes the Senator from Michigan" (Homer Ferguson). He nodded toward the chair where his fellow Michigander should have been sitting only to discover, to his chagrin, that Sen. Ferguson wasn't in the chamber.

Sneered Sen. Morse: "The Republican leadership must feel up against it when it recognizes phantoms."

AS EXAMPLES of the ultimate in succinctness, brevity and clarity of style, I would like to submit the contribution to Belles Lettres of Miss Reid's maid, Ethel. The collected literary works of the author consist of two letters, written a fortnight apart.

The first reads: "Hello Miss Reid. Your dishcloth went down the drain. Ethel."

The second, showing clearly the trenchant stylization of the writer, reads:

"Hello Miss Reid. Your dishcloth went down the drain again. Ethel."

Smart Set Revive Cape Fete

By BETTY ALDEN

REPRESENTATIVE Cape Codders from the canal to Provincetown are anticipating a festival evening a week from Friday when the Barnstable Ball will be revived for the first time in some years.

The ball will take place Aug. 1 in Village Hall, Barnstable, and will benefit Cape Cod Hospital. Before the war it was one of the traditional festivities of the Cape social season.

Patronesses include a number of Bostonians whose summer homes are at Barnstable and surrounding resorts. Mrs. Arthur M. Beale, Mrs. Alfred P. Lowell, Mrs. S. Peck, Mrs. Conrad Wesselhoef and Mrs. Robert Young. Also Mrs. Walter Tufts, Jr., of New Bedford and Yarrow, of Boston.

Mrs. Craig Huff, mouthpiece of Mrs. Porter Chase and Mrs. Lee Austin, Barnstable.

Lee Austin, Jr., is a member of the up and coming young committee arranging the dance together with Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Coggeshall, Edward O. Handy, Jr., Guido R. Perera, Jr., Joan Simpkins, John Simpkins, Maximilian Tufts, William Whitehead and Conrad Wesselhoef, Jr., son of the well known Boston surgeon.

MRS. JOSEPH BALLARD of Harvard is cruising the New England coast on her yacht Celeritas and following the various sailing races off Maine and Marblehead. She came ashore the other evening to dine at Eastern Yacht Club and attend "Springtime for Henry," this week's play at North Shore Players' Beverly theater.

Mrs. Thomas H. Shepard of Brookline, who is also spending most of the summer on the bounding main, came to the theater with a group of friends. Chatting in the lobby with Bradford Wellman of Hamilton, Charlotte Hodgkinson of Marblehead looked very attractive in a black tulle dinner dress with a pink net yoke. Other first nighters were Barbara Connolly, Bobby and Dick Coulson, Eleanor Lyman and Cordelia MacPherson and Mrs. Craig Huff Jr.

A MEMBER OF THE YOUNGER SET with theatrical aspirations had her first opportunity last evening to see what it's like on the other side of the footlights. Barbara Stanbro, post debut daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Stanbro of the Hotel Statler, made her debut as an actress in the Wellesley Summer Theater's production of "State of the Union" starring Richard Arlen, in Alumnae Hall, Wellesley campus.

Barbara and her sister Suzanne are students at the Wellesley Summer Theater School and whereas Suzanne is interested in the technical aspects of putting on a show, Barbara is the actress of the family. Their parents were in the large audience enjoying last evening's performance.

Other Wellesley theater goers for the week include Mr. and Mrs. Roger R. Thurber, Mrs. Herman J. Chilton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Maxwell Colburn, Mrs. Charles A. Stokes, Mrs. Gordon Trim, Mr. and Mrs. Edward English and Miss Carrie E. Mason.

Supply Ship Lost In North, Crew Safe

OTTAWA, Ont., July 23 (INS)—A wild Arctic storm has driven the Canadian supply ship "Nascopie" aground in the icy waters of Hudson Strait.

A wireless message from the far north reported that the ship, on her 37th and last trip to the Arctic, was a total loss and had been abandoned.

Her 50 passengers and her crew were rescued and safe at a little trading post at Cape Dorset, Baffin Island. The icebreaker McLean was racing to Hudson Strait tonight but was still 1200 miles away.

The Nascopie was delivering supplies to Arctic outposts of the Hudson Bay Company and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All supplies were lost but each post carries a year's supplies in reserve.

Col. Kilian Again Denied Promotion

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Col. James A. Kilian was bypassed again today when President Truman nominated 123 Army officers for promotion to the permanent rank of colonel.

Kilian, whose permanent rank now is lieutenant colonel, was convicted by a military court last August of permitting "cruel and unusual punishment" of American soldiers imprisoned in the replacement depot guard house at Litchfield, Eng. An appeal is pending.

100 Tokyo GIs Ask Bridal Permits

SALT LAKE CITY, July 23 (AP)—More than 100 American soldiers in Tokyo have filed applications either to marry Japanese girls or to bring their Japanese wives to the United States, Hito Okada, president of the Japanese-American Citizens' League, reported.

Okada said the bill signed by President Truman authorizing racially inadmissible wives of members of the U. S. armed forces to enter this country also will apply to natives of Guam and to Polyynesians.

Of the more than 100 servicemen who have filed about half are of Japanese extraction, Okada added.

Roxbury License Held Too Near War Hero Statue

The Boston Licensing Board today had under advisement the petition of Herbert Moses, whose desire to open a beer and wine store in Warren st., Roxbury, was opposed on the grounds it "too near" a statue of Gen. Joseph Warren, Revolutionary War hero.

The unusual objection was registered by William A. Singer, who described himself as Roxbury's historian and a representative of the Roxbury Centennial Society.

Navy Forced to Drop Nearly 1000 Officers

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS) The Navy announced today that it will be required to reduce its officer strength by approximately 1000 because of Congressional cuts in Navy appropriations.

The Navy said that 500 reserve line officers now on duty and 300 temporary line officers would be separated from the service and 200 line warrant officers would be given non-commission status.

New Sickness and Accident Plan Includes $25 Weekly Benefit Feature

Costs Only $12 a Year—Down Payment $2.50
Pays Hospital Benefits for Accidents

The average family has an income of $65 a week or less. Because of the high cost of living, they can't save money to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, in case accident or sickness strikes. Therefore, the 60-year-old North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago announces a special plan which gives just the kind of protection such families should have. It pays $25 a week for 10 weeks for certain specified accidents and sicknesses. Also, this Premier Limited Double Duty Policy pays $25 a week for 4 weeks for accidents requiring hospital confinement. Yet the total cost is only $12 a year. The purpose of this new policy is to bring sickness and accident protection within the reach of men and women who do not have large savings with which to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, or lost income.

This new plan also has a double-indemnity feature covering travel accidents. You receive $50 a week if disabled by an accident in a bus, taxicab, street car, train, etc., and $75 a week if the accident requires hospital confinement. There is another new special feature that pays up to $25 cash for doctor bills, even for a minor accident such as a cut finger. In case of accidental death the policy pays one thousand dollars cash to your family. Two thousand dollars if caused by a travel accident.

In addition, it covers many sicknesses including pneumonia, cancer, appendicitis operation, etc., paying the weekly benefits whether confined to home or hospital.

The entire cost is only $12 a year (even this small amount can be paid monthly—$2.50 down and $2.00 a month for 5 months—total cost $12.50) for both men and women between the ages of 15 and 64 inclusive. Between the ages of 65 and 75 the cost is only $18 a year. Protects you 24 hours a day. No reduction in benefits regardless of age. No medical examination is required.

Suppose you are now a member of some worthy hospitalization plan... you still need this additional protection. Why? Because only a small percentage of people are confined to a hospital—and even then only for a fraction of the time they may be disabled. Most people are confined at home where hospitalization plans do not apply. The North American Plan pays specified benefits regardless of whether you are confined to your home or to a hospital.

North American Accident Insurance Company, of Chicago, has devoted over sixty years to the underwriting of Accident and Health Insurance. It has paid out over $40,000,000 to grateful policy holders when they needed help most. North American is licensed by the Insurance Department of the State of Massachusetts, as well as 46 other States and The District of Columbia.

Men and women who would like full details about this new plan are urged to write a letter or postcard for a revealing booklet called "Cash or Sympathy." This booklet is absolutely free. It will come by ordinary mail without charge or obligation of any kind. No agent will call to deliver it. We suggest you get a free copy by mailing coupon to Premier Policy Division, North American Accident Insurance Co. of Chicago, 830 Broad Street, Dept. 637, Newark 2, New Jersey.

24 Program For All at U. of Mass.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, WED., JULY 23, 1947

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

PLANS FOR "FARM AND HOME DAYS" (July 30 and 31) at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass., are nearing completion, and here is a wonderful opportunity for homemakers to have a two-day vacation in that beautiful section of the state, and to get some helpful information at the same time.

An interesting program is planned which includes sessions for homemakers, for people interested in home gardening, farming, dairying, livestock raising, etc. Authoritative speakers are scheduled for each session, and ample opportunity is allowed for personal inspection of the various barns, green houses, poultry farms, dairy laboratories, household equipment, etc.

FOR THE CITY FOLKS, TOO

We question whether city women and men appreciate as fully as country folk the advantages offered by our State University. There is hardly any subject relating to the home or the farm on which bulletins are not available from the Extension Service; and county extension agents and 4-H Club instructors are at work constantly throughout the state educating people in small towns and rural districts on various farm and home projects.

Before the war, once a year a program of "Farm and Home Days" was conducted at the University so that people from all over the state could get together and hear first hand the latest information on farm and home developments. During the war this annual celebration was discontinued—but now it has been resumed.

Although the programs for all sections are equally interesting, we want to call attention particularly to the home-making program for Wednesday, July 30. It is hard to imagine where else a homemaker could get so much new and important information on home management presented in such a homey fashion by experts. For instance, let us give you a brief outline of the home-making program:

HOME MAKING

(Banker Auditorium)
Helen S. Mitchell, dean of Home Economics University of Massachusetts, will preside at the morning session.

10:00 "Planning Tomorrow's Kitchens"—Speaker: Elsie B. Erhardt, Western, Mass. Electric Co., Greenfield, Mass.

11:30 Luncheon time.
1:30 Community singing.
Beatrice E. Billings, state home demonstration leader, University of Massachusetts, will preside at the afternoon session.

2:00 "Get in Step with Facts about Foods"—Speaker: Helen S. Mitchell. Miss Pauline Gerard of the Wheat Flour Institute will give a demonstration talk on "bread making."
Kitchen Tours to New and Remodeled Kitchens around Amherst—some in private homes.

Exhibits of labor saving equipment, electrical equipment, and many other items of interest to homemakers will be open from 9:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. both days.

DANCE FESTIVAL

The two days' program is not all serious, by any means—because there will be gala evenings of "dancing on the green"—an old-fashioned country dance festival. It is expected that 25

'TIS OFTEN SAID, "simplicity is the keynote of elegance." William Bass carries out this idea in a simple but not severe feminine print with deep capelet-collared draped into a bow at one side of the square neckline, figure flattering midriff and gaily swirling skirt... in black or navy with powder-blue and white design, in white with red, green or brown design.—R. M.

festival will be the biggest affair of its kind ever to be staged in New England, with anticipated attendance of several thousand. Championship square dance teams from all sections of the state will demonstrate some of the more intricate quadrille patterns.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

NO PATIENCE AT HOME?—Good manners should begin at home. Don't be impatient with the members of your family, inconsiderate toward them and then try to be sweet-tempered, gracious and considerate when you are with others.

Lotion for Facial Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

BEAUTY OF FACE is probably woman's greatest gift and an asset which should be cherished... For who doesn't like to look at a pretty face? Even though we may jokingly say of some gal, "she's beautiful but dumb," we still admire and sometimes envy the pretty face of the girl next door.

It is not necessary to have perfect features to have an eye-appealing countenance. A clean, soft-as-silk complexion, has won many a fair damsel a husband in the marriage market... So, if you want to make a lasting impression on a certain someone, let your mirror be your guide to happiness.

If your facial contours seem to be a bit flabby and you see tiny fine lines appearing on the surface, use a special astringent lotion that contains almond oils that are beneficial in firming tired relaxed tissues. This astringent contains no alcohol and gives no drying qualities or "sting" to the sensitive or dry skin. It also contains a fair amount of ether to reduce excessive oiliness often brought about by loss of weight, illness, worry and age.

Solves Pore Problem

An enlarged pore problem can also be corrected with this unusual astringent lotion. It is the product of a well-known cosmetic house and has been used by some of the country's loveliest women.

Competition is keen nowadays and a gal has to be on her pretty toes every minute if she wants to look as lovely, if not lovelier than the next person. A dewy, blemish-free skin is a joy to behold... so why not face the spotlight with confidence because your skin has passed the test!

Just a few drops of this astringent, applied to the epidermis, will bring about that final look of facial perfection.

For the name of the unusual astringent lotion phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, daily except week-ends, or write to Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Here's Cure for Grumbling

Here's a thought that should cure your habit of grumbling: "Nothing is easier than fault-finding. No self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business."

THE PETAL-LIKE softness of Joan Fontaine's lovely face is certainly a joy to behold. This lovely Universal Picture star knows the value of a smooth complexion. To attain an enviable facial appearance try an etherized astringent lotion.

Mother of Pearl Pink Makes This Scene Sparkle

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

PINK AS pale as mother-of-pearl will lead the coltillion this winter. This particular pearly pink, delicate in tint, leaning more to white than to a real rose, is a shade that is universally flattering, for it can be worn by older women as well as by ingenues.

It has returned with the brocades, hand-run laces, lames and silk satins that are again available after the war. Designers have treated it with the respect it deserves; this light and delicate pink has been used in gowns that will star the season's most important gatherings.

Zoe de Salle makes this pink even more dramatic by combining it with pitch black in a hooded satin cape and gown ensemble for evening. The cape is reversible. One side is paneled in black and pink; the other side is full black satin. The dress is pale pink satin with long dolman sleeves. It is made on long slender lines with a dropped waistline and a diagonal wrap-around closing.

Case of Proxy Godfather

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Before I was sent overseas during the war I served as "godfather by proxy" in place of a friend of mine who was then overseas. Just after the christening I went overseas, and since the baby's parents were not relatives or friends of mine I have not seen them since my return to this country. Nor is it probable that I will see them for some time to come, for I have been told that they have moved permanently to the other coast.

Last evening my sister and I were speaking of these people, and she said she was sure that, as I was proxy godfather, it was my responsibility to send the child gifts for its birthday, for Christmas, and for such special occasions. (The baby's godfather is now in this country.) I told her I thought this was "bunk," that there would be no reason for such a rule. Is she right?

ANTHONY.
You're right... this idea of hers is "bunk," and there would indeed be no reason for such a rule as she is concocting. Your courteous responsibility ended when you served as godfather at the christening in place of your friend. From then on the position of godfather is your friend's responsibility.

Dr. Wise Protests British Seizure of Jewish Ship
NEW YORK, July 23 (INS)—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the World Jewish Congress, protested to the British and American governments against the "unprecedented and inhuman" action of the British in sending back to France 4500 Jews captured on the blockade runner Exodus 1947. Dr. Wise termed the interception of the vessel in extra-territorial waters an act of piracy and called on the U. S. government to make an official protest.

30 B's Pilot Tries To Figure Out Game's Mystery

By AUSTEN LAKE

CHICAGO, July 23—The morning lights in the Braves' wing at Wrigley Field were bleak as Billy Southworth sat on a club property trunk trying to sift his business correspondence from a market basketful of forwarded mail. Plainly he was in no mood for banter. But I said: "Suppose a baseball lawyer should walk in now and say 'You have pennant ambitions? But, if I guarantee you second place in the final league standing, will you sign a quitclaim to the championship?'"

Billy had just shared half of his doubleheader loaf with the Cubs, on both ends of a 2-0 score, and he glanced up coldly. "There's nothing behind first place in baseball," he said.

He tossed aside a sheaf of letters and, thinking out loud—words that seemed like lumps in his throat, he said: "We can't waste good pitching as we did when we blew the game behind Voiselle. We don't get enough of that kind..." He brooded silently, for Southworth is one of the game's noted die-hards and cannot compromise between perfection and failure. "Why is it?" he asked vaguely, not speaking to me so much as to the empty room where the players' gray traveling uniforms hung like corpses on a row of gibbets.

I sensed what he meant without asking "Why is what?" He wondered why one man becomes a hard-luck pitcher and another hung with horseshoes. Why, for example, did the Braves field like wizards and hit like magicians behind Red Barrett in the first Cubs' game and then commit every heinous sin in baseball's book behind Voiselle, who had lost on a pair of ridiculous errors?

Background Very Poor at Wrigley Field

THERE'S NO ANSWER! It's one of the strange mysteries of baseball. Tex Hughson was poison to the Red Sox throughout most of last year, when he dropped a flock of low hit, low run games. The Sox hit savagely behind other pitchers, notably Joe Dobson. But for Tex, they somehow flopped like so much limp laundry. Why indeed!

Last evening, after the 40-odd thousand Cubs fans who took their baseball less as a game than in the spirit of a Mohammedan Holy War had drifted into the gloaming, I walked to the players' bus with Hank Camelli, the catcher who had flubbed Voiselle's strikeout pitch to Don Johnson with one out in the sixth—a seeming schoolboy miff that rolled to the screen and let Johnson scamper safely to first. It had precipitated a two-run Cubs rally.

Hank was morbid about it, truly stricken. As he walked past the iron grills, he kept repeating "It came up like a blurr. I lost it..." The plain fact is there was a reasonable excuse for an eye-dazzle. For though the writer is not one to accept lame excuses, the center field background at Wrigley Field, where there is a capacity crowd, is a low-lying, mottled maze which makes a pitch seem to flicker and blink as it comes to the plate. It's a condition which the Cubs' management acknowledges and is trying to cure by experimenting with a blue cellophane screen which affords the batters and catchers a dark background while permitting the fans who are seated behind it to see the game clearly, though in a bright blue shade. There is a small screen of that type there today—but too tiny to serve any purpose. Braves Field is one of the few that offers no such problem, having a broad green painted apron against which pitches are vividly plain. "It wouldn't have happened in Boston," mourned Camelli. I don't think it would.

Losses White's Services by League Rule

SOUTHWORTH MUSED ON. "Before we talk pennant," he said, "we have to beat the Cubs, Pirates and Cincinnati, the big majority of our games this trip, then break even with the Cardinals..." The last word seemed to create an acid taste in his mouth. Cardinals' for at Cooperstown, in an off-guarded moment, Billy went into transports of envy of the St. Louis team. "Look! their pitching," he invited, with the hungry manner of a tramp eyeing a soup kitchen. "All they got to do is pick 'em out of a hat." Then he added wistfully: "Pitching is king over the long distance. Class always tells."

Oddly enough, though Brooklyn is the present league leader with a solid margin, not one of the National League managers I have talked to in late weeks thinks they will win. And these include Charley Grimm, who prophesied today: "They'll come apart." Johnny Neun, Billy Herman, Billy Southworth and Eddie Dyer.

Back to pitching! Southworth grew confidential. "You were right in Cooperstown when you asked me if I'd try to switch Ernie White from coach to player. I tried." And Billy confessed that Ernie's left arm, suddenly returned from the tomb to full life, could make a six to nine game difference in the remainder of this season. "I tried," said Billy sadly, "but it was no go."

He had hurried to see league President Ford Frick after the Cooperstown game as Frick was preparing to leave town. But the prexy was adamant. "No, Bill," he said, "the rule says you can't change a player to a coach or a coach to a player more than once a season. And White was switched to coach this spring. It's law." Bill had argued that the change had been made before the season opened. He almost wept about it. But White's status as coach stands till 1948, putting the Braves in the curious position of needing, and having, a No 1 left-handed pitcher, and unable to use him.

For the first time this year Southworth seemed a trifle pessimistic. He doubted that Clyde Shoun would come back for a long time, if at all this season. "His wife is sick," meditated Billy, "and her condition is aggravated by his absence. He's a solid family man, 60,000..."

Billy made a tiddling motion with his fingers as of escaping birds. "One day at a time," he said: "Never remember too much or look too far ahead." It's his current credo!

Red Sox Pull 2 Odd Plays On Lyonsmen

Echoes Of The Games: How the gals did scream when foul balls were hit. It was another one of those banner Ladies' Days... After tonight the Red Sox arc light games will start at 8:30 as the days become shorter... Couple of odd forced plays on the White Sox in the first. As Baker was being forced at second Pesky came over to the bag, caught the ball, and then dropped it in attempting the throw. Umpire McKinley quite properly ruled Baker out. Taft Wright was making second on the next play on York's grounder to Pesky who tossed too late to Doerr, but Wright stepped off the bag and Bobby put the tag on him for the out.

Rudy York came up with one of his patented one hand back hand pitch ups of Baker's low throw in the third, it was neatly done.

A weather vane has been placed atop the flag pole in center field which will be of immeasurable help to outfielders in judging prevailing winds.

The rubber cushions planned for the concrete wall in right field have been installed. The purpose being to protect right fielders if they should crash the wall chasing flies in that direction... Tonight's game with the White Sox will be followed by a day-light game tomorrow afternoon. Then the St. Louis Browns are in Friday for a night game followed by a single Saturday afternoon clash, then comes next Sunday's twin bill with the Browns.

Tonight the Boston and Chicago writers will be the guests of the Red Sox at a dinner in the press room. The boys gather at 6 p.m. The new press room atop the roof directly back of the press box is going to be a place of real beauty when it's completed.

The attendance was 14,681 divided as follows 6670 paid; 100 ladies and 5808 kiddies... Skeet Dickey, who replaced Mike Tresh behind the bat in Boston's eighth, once wore Red Sox spangles. He's a brother of the famous Bill who starred so long for the Yankees.

Pesky thought he had nailed Wright off second on Birdie Tebbetts' pick-off throw in the ninth. Birdie's throw was perfect but Umpire McKinley ruled otherwise despite Johnny's violent argument. HOEY had registered win No. 11 over Chicago against two defeats. And Six of these Boston victories have come at Fenway Park.

So when the teams meet at 8:45 tonight the Red Sox will have a further chance of fattening this most impressive record against the Chicago entry.

Tonight's battle under the lights shows possibilities of a pitchers' battle with Dave Ferriss (8-3) operating for Boston and Joe Haynes (5-3) working for Chicago. Both are smart and resourceful, right-handers with plenty of stuff and good to watch.

Plenty of nerve racking situations were crowded into yesterday's battle which was in doubt right up to the final play in the 10th when Birdie Tebbetts whipped a double down the third base line to score Dom DiMaggio from first base with the winning marker. Boston, for a change, received a break on this play.

As left fielder Dave Philley dashed over to recover Birdie's grounder near the foul line he tripped. This delayed him just long enough to prevent any play at the plate on DiMaggio.

Dom DiMaggio was the real hitting spark plug for the Red Sox although another male made more hits. His single in the first drove in the first two runs. His single in the 10th opened the Boston rally which happily finished at the plate on Tebbetts' double down the third base line.

Both teams did some vigorous batting with Boston gathering 12 hits and the White Sox 11. The latter picked up single runs in the seventh and eighth to deadlock the game and force the extra inning.

It was good to see Ted Williams and Johnny Pesky produce some vigorous hitting, too. Johnny picked up four singles in six trips. Tall Ted's double to left in the first was an important part of the Boston two-run surge. Ted singled again in the fifth and was hit by a pitched ball in the ninth. Twice he flew out. So Williams' average climbs to the .330 mark while Pesky reached the .309 slot.

Bobby Doerr was ineffective with the stick, but he was a ball of fire afield. He was immense all afternoon, coming up with grand plays to his left and right and working beautifully on double plays.

When the opposition gathers 11 hits it doesn't make the home twirler look too good. But Joe apparently has recovered from his arm ailment and more work may give him back that fine control that made him look so good in his winning game of the World Series last fall. He was making them too good yesterday.

Sam Dente made his first local appearance at third for Boston and the youngster seems to be the answer to Joe Cronin's prayer for someone to fill that spot effectively. Sam is a swell fielder, the steadiest of the flock of third sackers Cronin has tried out in the last two seasons. He made only a single, but he hits the ball with authority. Boston fans are going to like him.

Broadway Will Miss Broderick; Ace Sleuth Retires

By JACK CONWAY

JOHNNY BRODERICK, one of the most feared but also most highly respected detectives along Broadway for more than 20 years has retired and in future will not have occasion to use his fists of iron to restore order. Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey and other ring champions were able to sleep peacefully because Broderick took charge of them once they reached the New York area before a title bout.

I have known Johnny Broderick for 20 years, and found him alert and daring under pressure. His word was law along Broadway and in Madison Square Garden during the Golden Twenties when the lush money earned by racketeers during prohibition gave them an air of false importance.

It was during this period that Vincent Coll became one of the greatest dangers ever to hit Broadway. Coll was a graduate of the old Dutch Schultz mob and he made kidnapping of bookmakers and racketeers one of his specialties. He would seize bookmakers at the track or at New York night spots, who had been winning, and would hold them in a hideout until they paid the customary fee of $25,000.

One night Coll became even more rash than usual and kidnaped one of New York's top racketeers. The story goes that when the racketeer declared he could not pay the $25,000 fee to get his release, Coll told him to call one of his partners on the telephone.

"I am fining you $10,000 for lying," said Coll. "So now get up $35,000."

Coll later was rubbed out as he made a telephone call from a drugstore near his hideout. His bodyguard had thoughtfully taken a stroll when the assassins arrived.

BRODERICK HAD TO DEAL with such situations as part of his day's work, and his fists were feared more by the racketeers than guns of rival gangsters.

Dempsey and the other champions liked to have Broderick in their corner as they knew once the word was out that they were being guarded by Johnny that even a Vincent Coll would not think of molesting them.

It was as a young police officer that Broderick first made the headlines. There was a big jail break at the Tombs, and the prisoners were using ropes to scale the walls. Broderick, with the aid of a rope ladder, climbed to the top of one of the walls, killed one of those involved in the break for liberty, and wounded several more.

When "Two Gun" Crowley was barricaded in an apartment in one of the most spectacular shooting affairs in the history of New York, Broderick was first to reach him.

One night in the Garden there was a disturbance which Broderick ended quickly by knocking the ringleader down a flight of stairs.

"Tough guys lose standing with their mob when a copper hits them on the chin," Broderick once told me.

For Broderick to be so successful in handling the leaders of the underworld it was necessary that he have a reputation for honesty and fairness. He never made a move against a gangster unless the latter was out of order.

The late Jack Gorman was Broderick's partner. Gorman was not as handy with his fists as Johnny, but he knew all the secrets of the crime world. As District Attorney in Brooklyn, Mayor Bill O'Dwyer put Gorman in charge of his investigation of Murder, Inc. This crusade was the stepping stone O'Dwyer needed to become a national figure.

"I FOUND THAT WHEN the heat was on the members of Murder, Inc. turned each other in," O'Dwyer told me. "There was one fellow we tied in with the mob by moving pictures that were taken by one of their own group during a vacation at Miami."

"At first this member of the mob denied any association with Murder, Inc. We then gave him a private showing of the film we had seized. As his own picture flashed on the screen, he jumped to his feet, exclaiming, 'That's me.'"

"The mobster expected to be arrested at once. Instead we let him go home, and later permitted him to make a trip to California with instructions to keep my office informed as to his whereabouts. This system always worked out well. The racketeers would talk to members of their families, and would sing in an effort to save their own skins."

The last time this writer talked to Jack Gorman we were with Joe DiMaggio, Billy Conn and Jim Flood in the lobby of the Edison Hotel. Like others who had spent years near the bright lights of Broadway, Gorman, too, enjoyed their sparkle.

Johnny Broderick liked the excitement of Broadway, and he is sure to miss it. The names of Broderick and Gorman will live through the years on the great artery.

CLAUDE DAVIDSON SAYS that the New England League as a whole is operating in the black though the Lawrence club recently folded. . . Lowell has become a member of the New England League.

Night baseball has made it possible for minor leagues to succeed. Talk of $100,000 jockey rings always attracts attention, but such charges seldom can be proved even when they are true. . . There have been two instances, one in California and the other in Kentucky, where race track officials were able to expose jockey rings. . .

Allen Wilson was quick to deny charges there was a jockey ring in operation at Suffolk Downs. . . The Jockey Guild, represented by Willie Canning at the East Boston track, could help the situation by insisting its members keep out of night spots that are frequented by professional gamblers. . . Even when a jockey is 100 per cent honest, it does not help racing if he is seen in places where professional gamblers hang out.

'Bobo' Fooled 'Old Fox' Griffith

Veteran baseball observers were wondering today how the "Old Fox," Clark Griffith, prexy of the Washington Senators, allowed himself to be persuaded into unloading the talkative but talented Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, according to the Associated Press.

Old Bobo, despite his showboat tactics and the flair for comedy even while working, demonstrated last night that he still is quite some pitcher. Making his third start for his newest club, the league-leading Yankees, the much-traveled right-hander won his third straight game with a brilliant three-hit 6-0 shutout victory over the Browns.

It was Bobo himself who revealed that he had asked Griffith for a transfer from the Senators two weeks ago. "Yeah, I got tired of the Washington situation, so I said to Griff, 'Let me get away from here.' He let me go."

"I don't see why he listened to me," Bobo added.

That marked the second time in two years that Newsom requested a change and got it. In June, 1946, Bobo said to Connie Mack, then his employer, "better give me a release. You don't need a $16,000 pitcher." So Bobo signed with Washington for the fourth time. He came to the Yankees only two short of 200 victories. Now he has 201 wins.

The 38-year-old Newsom, who has been with six American League clubs (he's missed only Cleveland and Chicago), two National League teams and nine in the minors, and has made no fewer than 22 shifts, somehow gets a shot in the arm with each new club. When he first came to Washington from the St. Louis Browns, he had failed to win a game in eight starts. He promptly beat the White Sox 11-0, then turned in a brilliant victory against the Indians despite pitching with a broken kneecap from the second inning on.

He had a 3-5 record with the A's when he switched to Washington and won 11 for the Nats compared with eight defeats. He had a bad record with Washington this season, having dropped six of 10 decisions before joining the Yankees.

While Griffith may have some misgivings over allowing Bobo to talk himself into a transfer, Washington manager Ossie Bluege said he was not sorry.

"He couldn't win for us, and looked like he never was going to," said Bluege.

Newsom has allowed only four runs and 18 hits in 29 innings of mound work for the Yankees (he worked two innings in relief) since joining them last July 12. His three-hitter last night (he walked one and fanned six) was his best effort of the season, by far. Only one Browne reached third. The win extended the Yankees' first place margin over runner-up Detroit to 10½ games.

The Tugs lost to the Senators in a night game in Washington 6-1 as Early Wynn registered his 11th victory.

With each team making only three hits, the A's protected their fourth place bid with a 5-3 victory over Cleveland in a night game at Philadelphia. Sam Chapman's two-run homer accounted for the margin of victory. Dale Mitchell, rookie Indian outfielder, saw his 22-game hitting streak snapped when he failed to hit safely in three official trips to the plate.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to five games over the Giants and Braves by rolling over the Reds in a night game at Cincinnati 12-1.

Stan Musial, rapidly regaining his 1946 batting form, slammed out a single, double and his 10th homer to lead the fourth place Cardinals to a 10-5 win over the Giants in a night game at St. Louis.

We don't get enough of that kind..." He brooded silently, for Southworth is one of the game's noted die-hards and cannot compromise between perfection and failure. "Why is it?" he asked vaguely, not speaking to me so much as to the empty room where the players' gray traveling uniforms hung like corpses on a row of gibbets.

I sensed what he meant without asking "Why is what?" He wondered why one man becomes a hard-luck pitcher and another hung with horseshoes. Why, for example, did the Braves field like wizards and hit like magicians behind Red Barrett in the first Cubs' game and then commit every heinous sin in baseball's book behind Voiselle, who had lost on a pair of ridiculous errors?

Background Very Poor at Wrigley Field

THERE'S NO ANSWER! It's one of the strange mysteries of baseball. Tex Hughson was poison to the Red Sox throughout most of last year, when he dropped a flock of low hit, low run games. The Sox hit savagely behind other pitchers, notably Joe Dobson. But for Tex, they somehow flopped like so much limp laundry. Why indeed!

Last evening, after the 40-odd thousand Cubs fans who take their baseball less as a game than in the spirit of a Mohammedan Holy War had drifted into the gloaming, I walked to the players' bus with Hank Camelli, the catcher who had flubbed Voiselle's strikeout pitch to Don Johnson with one out in the sixth—a seeming schoolboy miff that rolled to the screen and let Johnson scamper safely to first. It had precipitated a two-run Cubs' rally.

Hank was morbid about it, truly stricken. As he walked past the iron grills, he kept repeating "It came up like a blur. I lost it..." The plain fact is there was a reasonable excuse for an eye-dazzle. For, though the writer is not one to accept lame excuses, the center field background at Wrigley Field, where there is a capacity crowd, is a low-lying, mottled maze which makes a pitch seem to flicker and blink as it comes to the plate. It's a condition which the Cubs' management acknowledges and is trying to cure by experimenting with a blue cellophane screen which affords the batters and catchers a dark background while permitting the fans who are seated behind it to see the game clearly, though in a bright blue shade. There is a small screen of that type there today—but too tiny to serve any purpose. Braves Field is one of the few that offers no such problem, having a broad green painted apron against which pitches are vividly plain. "It wouldn't have happened in Boston," mourned Camelli. I don't think it would.

Loses White's Services by League Rule

SOUTHWORTH MUSED ON. "Before we talk pennant," he said, "we have to beat the Cubs, Pirates and Cincinnati, the big majority of our games this trip, then break even with the Cardinals..." The last word seemed to create an acid taste in his mouth. Cardinals! For at Cooperstown, in an off-guarded moment, Billy went into transports of envy of the St. Louis team. "Look! their pitching!" he invited, with the hungry manner of a tramp eyeing a soup kitchen. "All they got to do is pick 'em out of a hat." Then he added wistfully: "Pitching is king over the long distance. Class always tells."

Oddly enough, though Brooklyn is the present league leader with a solid margin, not one of the National League managers I have talked to in late weeks thinks they will win. And these include Charley Grimm, who prophesied today, "They'll come apart," Johnny Neun, Billy Herman, Billy Southworth and Eddie Dyer.

Back to pitching! Southworth grew confidential. "You were right in Cooperstown when you asked me if I'd try to switch Ernie White from coach to player. I tried," and Billy confessed that Ernie's left arm, suddenly returned from the tomb to full life, could make a six to nine game difference in the remainder of this season. "I tried," said Billy sadly, "but it was no go."

He had hurried to see league President Ford Frick after the Cooperstown game as Frick was preparing to leave town. But the prexy was adamant. "No, Bill," he said, "the rule says you can't change a player to a coach or a coach to a player more than once a season. And White was supposed to coach this spring. It's law." Bill had argued that the change had been made before the season opened. He almost wept about it. But White's status as coach stands till 1948, putting the Braves in the curious position of needing, and having, a No. 1 left-handed pitcher, and unable to use him.

For the first time this year Southworth seemed a little pessimistic. He doubted that Clyde Shoun would come back for a long time, if at all this season. "His wife is sick," meditated Billy, "and her condition is aggravated by his absence. He's a solid family man, sooooo..."

Billy made a tiddling motion with his fingers as of escaping birds. "One day at a time," he said: "Never remember too much or look too far ahead." It's his current credo!

Boston Would See '47 Series If Sox Played Only Chicago

By FRED HOEY

If the Red Sox had only the White Sox to meet for the balance of the season they could now make preparations for another World's Series here, regardless of the Yankees and Tigers. When the locals turned back the Pale Hose 3-2 yesterday in 10 innings they had registered win No. 11 over Chicago against two defeats. And six of these Boston victories have come at Fenway Park.

So when the teams meet at 8:45 tonight the Red Sox will have a further chance of fattening this most impressive record against the Chicago entry.

Tonight's battle under the lights shows possibilities of a pitchers' battle with Dave Ferriss (8-3) operating for Boston and Joe Haynes (5-3) working for Chicago. Both are smart and resourceful right-handers with plenty of stuff and good to watch.

Plenty of nerve racking situations were crowded into yesterday's battle which was in doubt right up to the final play in the 10th when Birdie Tebbett's whipped a double down the third base line to score Dom DiMaggio from first base with the winning marker. Boston, for a change, received a break on this play.

As left fielder Dave Philley dashed over to recover Birdie's grounder near the foul line he tripped. This delayed him just long enough to prevent any play at the plate on DiMaggio.

Dom DiMaggio was the real hitting spark plug for the Red Sox although another male made more hits. His single in the first drove in the first two runs. His single in the 10th opened the Boston rally which happily finished at the plate on Tebbett's double down the third base line.

Both teams did some vigorous batting with Boston gathering 12 hits and the White Sox 11. The latter picked up single runs in the seventh and eighth to deadlock the game and force the extra innings.

It was good to see Ted Williams and Johnny Pesky produce some vigorous hitting, too. Johnny picked up four singles in six trips. Ted singled again in the fifth and was hit by a pitched ball in the ninth. Twice he flied out. So Williams' average climbs to the .330 mark while Pesky reached the .309 slot.

Bobby Doerr was ineffective with the stick, but he was a ball of fire afield. He was immense all afternoon, coming up with grand plays to his left and right and working beautifully on double plays.

When the opposition gathers 11 hits it doesn't make the home twirler look too good. But Joe apparently has recovered from his arm ailment and more work may give him back that fine control that made him look so good in his winning game of the World Series last fall. He was making them too good yesterday.

Red Sox Pull 2 Odd Plays On Lyonsmen

Echoes Of The Games: How the gals did scream when foul balls were hit. It was another one of those banner Ladies' Days... After tonight the Red Sox are light games will start at 8:30 as the days become shorter... Couple of odd forced plays on the White Sox in the first. As Baker was being forced at second Pesky came over to the bag, caught the ball, and then dropped it in attempting the throw. Umpire McKinley quite properly ruled Baker out. Taft Wright was making second on the next play on York's grounder to Pesky who tossed too late to Doerr, but Wright stepped off the bag and Bobby put the tag on him for the out.

Rudy York came up with one of his patented one hand back hand pitch ups of Baker's low throw in the third, it was neatly done.

A weather vane has been placed atop the flag pole in center field which will be of immeasurable help to outfielders in judging prevailing winds.

The concrete cushions planned for the rubber wall in right field have been installed. The purpose being to protect right fielders if they should crash the wall chasing flies in that direction...

Tonight's game with the White Sox will be followed by a day-light game tomorrow afternoon. Then the St. Louis Browns are in Friday for a night game followed by a single Saturday afternoon clash, then comes next Sunday's twin bill with the Browns.

Tonight the Boston and Chicago writers will be the guests of the Red Sox at a dinner in the old pressroom. The boys gather at 6 p.m. The new press room atop the roof directly back of the press box is going to be a place of real beauty when it's completed.

The attendance was 14,681 divided as follows 6670 paid; 2203 ladies and 5808 kiddies... Skeet Dickey, who replaced Mike Tresh behind the bat in Boston's eighth, once wore Red Sox spangles. He's a brother of the famous Bill who starred so long for the Yankees.

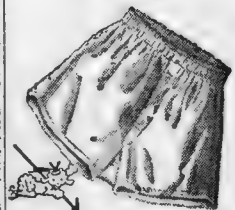

Pesky thought he had nailed Wright off second on Birdie Tebbett's pick-off throw in the ninth. Birdie's throw was perfect but Umpire McKinley ruled otherwise despite Johnny's violent argument.

Boston fans are going to like him.

Broadway Will Miss Broderick; Ace Sleuth Retires

By JACK CONWAY

JOHNNY BRODERICK, one of the most feared but also most highly respected detectives along Broadway for more than 20 years has retired and in future will not have occasion to use his fists of iron to restore order. Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey and other ring champions were able to sleep peacefully because Broderick took charge of them once they reached the New York area before a title bout.

I have known Johnny Broderick for 20 years, and found him alert and daring under pressure. His word was law along Broadway and in Madison Square Garden during the Golden Twenties when the lush money earned by racketeers during prohibition gave them an air of false importance.

It was during this period that Vincent Coll became one of the greatest dangers ever to hit Broadway. Coll was a graduate of the old Dutch Schultz mob and he made kidnapping of bookmakers and racketeers one of his specialties. He would seize bookmakers at the track or at New York night spots, who had been winning, and would hold them in a hideout until they paid the customary fee of $25,000.

One night Coll became even more rash than usual and kidnaped one of New York's top racketeers. The story goes that when the racketeer declared he could not pay the $25,000 fee to get his release, Coll told him to call one of his partners on the telephone.

"I am fining you $10,000 for lying," said Coll. "So now get up $35,000."

Coll later was rubbed out as he made a telephone call from a drugstore near his hideout. His bodyguard had thoughtfully taken a stroll when the assassins arrived.

BRODERICK HAD TO DEAL with such situations as part of his day's work, and his fists were feared more by the racketeers than guns of rival gangsters.

Dempsey and the other champions liked to have Broderick in their corner as they knew once the word was out that they were being guarded by Johnny that even a Vincent Coll would not think of molesting them.

It was as a young police officer that Broderick first made the headlines. There was a big jail break at the Tombs, and the prisoners were using ropes to scale the walls. Broderick, with the aid of a rope ladder, climbed to the top of one of the walls, killed one of those involved in the break for liberty, and wounded several more.

When "Two Gun" Crowley was barricaded in an apartment in one of the most spectacular shooting affairs in the history of New York, Broderick was first to reach him.

One night in the Garden there was a disturbance which Broderick ended quickly by knocking the ringleader down a flight of stairs.

"Tough guys lose standing with their mob when a copper hits them on the chin," Broderick once told me.

For Broderick to be so successful in handling the leaders of the underworld it was necessary that he have a reputation for honesty and fairness. He never made a move against a gangster unless the latter was out of order.

The late Jack Gorman was Broderick's partner. Gorman was not as handy with his fists as Johnny, but he knew all the secrets of the crime world. As District Attorney in Brooklyn, Mayor Bill O'Dwyer put Gorman in charge of his investigation of Murder, Inc. This crusade was the stepping stone O'Dwyer needed to become a national figure.

"I FOUND THAT WHEN the heat was on the members of Murder, Inc., turned each other in," O'Dwyer told me. "There was one fellow we tied in with the mob by moving pictures that were taken by one of their own group during a vacation at Miami."

"At first this member of the mob denied any association with Murder, Inc. We then gave him a private showing of the film we had seized. As his own picture flashed on the screen, he jumped to his feet, exclaiming, 'That's me.'"

"The mobster expected to be arrested at once. Instead we let him go home, and later permitted him to make a trip to California with instructions to keep my office informed as to his whereabouts. This system always worked out well. The racketeers would talk to members of their families, and would sing in an effort to save their own skins."

The last time this writer talked to Jack Gorman we were with Joe DiMaggio, Billy Conn and Jim Flood in the lobby of the Edison Hotel. Like others who had spent years near the bright lights of Broadway, Gorman, too, enjoyed their sparkle.

Johnny Broderick liked the excitement of Broadway, and he is sure to miss it. The names of Broderick and Gorman will live through the years on the great artery.

CLAUDE DAVIDSON SAYS that the New England League as a whole is opening in the black though the Lawrence club recently folded. Lowell has become a member of the New England League.

Night baseball has made it possible for minor leagues to succeed. Talk of $100,000 jockey rings always attracts attention, but such charges seldom can be proved even when they are true.

There have been two instances, one in California and the other in Kentucky, where race track officials were able to expose jockey rings. Allan Wilson was quick to deny charges there was a jockey ring in operation at Suffolk Downs. The Jockey Guild, represented by Willie Canning at the East Boston track, could help the situation by insisting its members keep out of night spots that are frequented by professional gamblers. Even when a jockey is 100 per cent honest, it does not help racing if he is seen in places where professional gamblers hang out.

'Bobo' Fooled 'Old Fox' Griffith

Veteran baseball observers were wondering today how the "Old Fox," Clark Griffith, prey of the Washington Senators, allowed himself to be persuaded into unloading the talkative but talented Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, according to the Associated Press.

Old Bobo, despite his showboat tactics and the flair for comedy even while working, demonstrated last night that he still is quite some pitcher. Making his third start for his newest club, the league-leading Yankees, the much-traveled right-hander won his third straight game with a brilliant three-hit 6-0 shutout victory over the Browns.

It was Bobo himself who revealed that he had asked Griffith for a transfer from the Senators two weeks ago. "Yeah, I got tired of the Washington situation, so I said to Griff, 'Let me get away from here. Let me go.'"

"I don't see why he listened to me," Bobo added.

That marked the second time in two years that Newsom requested a change and got it. In June, 1946, Bobo said to Connie Mack, then his employer, "better give me a release. You don't need a $16,000 pitcher." So Bobo signed with Washington for the fourth time. He came to the Yankees only two short of 200 victories. Now he has 201 wins.

The 38-year-old Newsom, who has been with six American League clubs (he's missed only Cleveland and Chicago), two National League teams and nine in the minors, and has made no fewer than 22 shifts, somehow gets a shot in the arm with each new club. When he first came to Washington from the St. Louis Browns, he had failed to win a game in eight starts. He promptly beat the White Sox 11-0, then turned in a brilliant victory against the Indians despite pitching with a broken kneecap from the second inning on.

He had a 3-5 record with the A's when he switched to Washington and won 11 for the Nats compared with eight defeats. He had a bad record with Washington this season, having dropped six of 10 decisions before joining the Yankees.

While Griffith may have some misgivings over allowing Bobo to talk himself into a transfer, Washington manager Ossie Bluege said he was not sorry.

"He couldn't win for us, and looked like he never was going to," said Bluege.

Newsom has allowed only four runs and 18 hits in 29 innings of mound work for the Yankees (he worked two innings in relief) since joining them last July 12. His three-hitter last night (he walked one and fanned six) was his best effort of the season, by far. Only one Browne reached third. The win extended the Yankees' first place margin over runner-up Detroit to 10½ games.

The Tigers lost to the Senators in a night game in Washington 6-1 as Early Wynn registered his 11th victory.

With each team making only three hits, the A's protected their fourth place hold with a 5-3 victory over Cleveland in a night game at Philadelphia. Sam Chapman's two-run homer accounted for the margin of victory. Dale Mitchell, rookie Indian outfielder, saw his 22-game hitting streak snapped when he failed to hit safely in three official trips to the plate.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to five games over the Giants and Braves by rolling over the Reds in a night game at Cincinnati 12-1.

Stan Musial, rapidly regaining his 1946 batting form, slammed out a single, double and his 10th homer to lead the fourth place Cardinals to a 10-5 win over the Giants in a night game at St. Louis.

32 Clara Lamore Enters Brockton Swim Test

The NEAAU swimming meet which is scheduled for the Montello Pool, Brockton, next Saturday afternoon at 2:45 will be one of the most closely contested meets of the season.

First, Clara Lamore, previous New England champion of New England, has been defeated in a championship race. Secondly, Joe Prata, the defending New England men's champion, has been downed in two open events. More upsets may be scored at Brockton. Clara will be swimming in the New England AAU championship 880 senior freestyle race. Jean Senior, the little Providence swimmer who beat Clara in a 220-yard breaststroke earlier in the season, at yet has not placed an entry but the field is still formidable.

Among the entries for the 880 are: Pauline Silven, Connie Mills, Marion Senior and Louise Sherlock.

Joe Prata will compete in the NEAAU 300-yard individual medley. His nemesis, Bob McGrath, who beat him last week at Lexington, is among the entrants. Others are: Charlie Stephanos, Lynn, who was second to Joe in the 440-yard freestyle title race at Portsmouth; Bob Arweson and Vassile Bellini, both top contenders.

The Brockton swimming entry list, New England senior 880-yard freestyle for women:

Pauline Silven, Providence Central; Clara Lamore, Olneyville; Connie Mills, Providence Central; Marion Senior, Wanskuck; Louise Sherlock, unattached.

One-hundred-meter freestyle open for women:

Pauline Silven, Connie Mills and Nancy Bradley, Providence Central; Beverly Gay and Lynn Aitkens, Winchester; Corale O'Connor, Whitinsville; Janet Moreau and Louise Sherlock, unattached; Marion Senior, Wanskuck; Barbara Donaghey and Sally Morgan, Winchester S. C.; Clara Lamore, Olneyville.

Mass. State AAU 100 meter backstroke for women:

Sally Morgan, Lynn Aitkens, Beverly Gay and Marge Carroll, Winchester S. C.

NEAAU senior 300-meter individual medley for men:

Bob McGrath, Winchester; Prata and Vassile Bellini, Wanskuck; Charlie Stephanos, Lynn B. C.; Bob Arweson, Providence Central.

Manila Promoter Suing Robinson

MANILA, July 23 (AP)—Filipino boxing promoter Jess Cortes said today he had asked his representative in the United States to sue welterweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson for $100,000 for allegedly breaching a contract to fight in the Philippines in September.

Cortes declared Robinson signed a contract to stake his title Sept. 2 against Flashy Sebastian, Filipino fighter from Hawaii, but late refused to come to Manila before November.

The promoter said he now was negotiating to bring featherweight champion Willie Pep here to meet the Philippine titleholder to be determined in a bout between Speedy Cabanela and Tirso Delrosario Aug. 16.

Perry, Kovacs, Crosby Exhibit at Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 22 (INS)—Fred Perry, former world's tennis champ, was scheduled today to be among a group of well known professional tennis players who will participate Aug. 2 and 3 in a series of singles and doubles exhibition matches at Wentworth-by-the-Sea.

Included among the player will be John Founce, Bill Crosby and Frank Kovacs.

5 Star Trotters in Westbury $8000 Event

WESTBURY, July 23 (AP)—Five 3-year-old trotters have been named for tonight's $8000 Matron Stakes at one mile Roosevelt Raceway as the Grand Circuit meeting stages its third program at the Long Island plant.

Springflower, American Ballad, Patrick Hanover, Niblik and Nymph Hanover comprise the field.

Notre Dame Captain On Scottish Card

George Sullivan of Walpole, captain-elect of the Notre Dame football team, was entered today in the Caledonian Club of Boston annual Scottish games at Russell Field, North Cambridge, Aug. 2.

Sullivan will vie for honors in the caber toss, 28 and 50-pound weight throws and the shoptut.

VEECK UNDER KNIFE

CLEVELAND, July 23 (AP)—Surgeons expect to remove about two additional inches from Bill Veck's right leg today because the stump from his first amputation has failed to heal properly.

The Cleveland Indians president was in Cleveland's clinic hospital for the operation. His leg was hurt in a wartime accident.

Anglers Must Pass Up Sleep To Be Ready for Striped Bass

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH
BUZZARDS BAY, July 23 — "If you want to catch striped bass in this area, you won't catch much sleep," was the advice we received from veteran and expert anglers here, who added that the best times to hook 'em were the hours just before and after dawn.

"Meet me at 3:45 a. m. at the diner," instructed genial Charley Sherer, co-owner of the Red Top Bait Shop. "Since we had forgotten to bring our alarm clock, we borrowed one from Clayton Fuller, operator of another tackle store. 'It doesn't work too well,'" he warned. And he was correct; the alarm awakened us very early at one o'clock, although it had been set for 3:30!

At this point, we decided the only thing to do was to remain awake until the appointed hour—which wakened to do by counting imaginary bass that we hoped to land. . . . Arriving at the rendezvous, we took off, clutching our new beryllium copper rod, accompanied by Charley, Buddy Merriman, and Jack Miller. . . . We waded into the strait nine pounder, using an atom plug. . . . Later in the morning, we waded through the mud flats off the "Little Hay Fields," finding plenty of squid, but no bass.

The pay-off came at noon when we were back at Red Top, for in strolled a fisherman, who weighed in a 30-pounder, which he had caught only a few minutes ago.

Several hundred casts later, it appeared obvious that the strippers weren't striking, although Buddy reeled in a stray nine pounder, using an atom plug. . . . Later in the morning, we waded through the mud flats off the "Little Hay Fields," finding plenty of squid, but no bass.

The pay-off came at noon when we were back at Red Top, for in strolled a fisherman, who weighed in a 30-pounder, which he had caught only a few minutes ago.

ANGLING ANGLES: The U. S. Army Engineers are annoyed at the way some anglers have been moving the rip-rap on the Canal banks. While fishing at night, we could hear chaps rolling large rocks in order to make crude casting platforms. If these actions continue, a few may spoil the sport for many.

B. U. Announces Fenway Park Dates

Boston University announced today that three football games next fall would be played at night under the lights at Fenway Park, one shift being conditional on whether the Red Sox, owners of Fenway, win the American League pennant.

The opening tilt against Mohawk College will be played the night of Sept. 27—if the Red Sox do not play in the World Series. If the Sox are in the fall baseball classic, the game will be played that afternoon on B. U.'s home field at Weston.

The Terriers, to be coached by Aldo (Buff) Donelli, will oppose New York U. Friday night, Oct. 10 instead of Oct. 11 as previously announced. The other night game will be Saturday, Oct. 25, against William and Mary.

The rest of the schedule, as previously announced: Oct. 18, Purdue (homecoming day); Nov. 1, Fordham; Nov. 15, King's Point, and Nov. 22, Colgate. All games will be played at Fenway Park.

and a furious test is not known, but trainer Max Hirsch announced in New York that he was planning to rest the son of Bold Venture until the Saratoga meeting in August. . . . If Judge John Pappas and other officials of the Eastern Racing Ass'n were doing a bit of stall walking yesterday, it was because they had not as yet received official word from trainer Hirsch Jacobs that he would ship Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs Styrmie to Suffolk Downs for the big race, although the world's largest money winning thoroughbred is still regarded as a definite starter. There is little doubt that the appearance of Styrmie in Massachusetts would make the race the biggest event of the New England season.

Little, if anything, is known of what transpired at the confab between Allan J. Wilson, president of the Eastern Racing Association, and the H. B. P. A. committee other than a terse statement from the Suffolk Downs publicity office as follows:

"Horses which have raced at other tracks during the current Suffolk Downs meeting will be permitted to make entries at Suffolk, contingent upon the necessary stabling space being available."

The H. B. P. A., in seeking to iron out its differences with the horsemen at Lincoln Downs, had petitioned Wilson to allow the Rhode Island track's horses to run at his meeting.

Mrs. Stanley Sagner's Saggy, winner of six out of seven races and regarded as the top juvenile of the year, is now stabled at Suffolk Downs. If it weren't for the fact that the Massachusetts is coming up, Publicist Frank Ryan and his staff would be doing some fancy somersaults over the appearance of the fleet son of Swing and Sway. Saggy unfortunately, is not eligible for Saturday's $10,000 Miles Standish Stakes, but must bide his time until August 9, the date of the running of the $25,000 Mayflower Stakes. . . . The Suffolk Downs publicity office had a battery of cameramen at the East Boston Airport Monday night to await the arrival by air of the Mar-Cat's Eternal Way. But, in the meantime the juvenile son of Eternal Bull, was quietly shipped into the Downs by van. . . . Eternal Way was slated to race in a race which was cancelled, so he will remain at Suffolk for several more days awaiting a similar race.

N. E. Sandlot Final Free

By JACK CONWAY, JR.
The second annual Record-American-Sunday Advertiser New England sandlot baseball championship game next Tuesday afternoon at Fenway Park will be free to all, it has been announced by Red Sox officials.

The game will be played after a regular Cleveland-Red Sox game.
Eddie Doherty, Red Sox publicity director, who made the announcement, said, "we will throw the gates open to the public after the seventh inning of the Red Sox-Cleveland game. This will enable the fans to see the last few innings of the league game and get located for the National game. The sandlot squad is composed of the best amateur players ever assembled on a New England diamond."

Claude Davidson, president of the New England League, and Bill Barrett, Red Sox scout, the Hearst caravan through nine N. E. cities where the N. E. League clubs and the park departments collaborated in holding the try-outs.

Now the team is complete.
The boys, all under 19 years of age, will play a regulation nine-inning game. A board consisting of Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, Claude Davidson, Bill Barrett and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland pilot, will name two boys from the group to make the seven-day trip to New York for the Hearst National game at the Polo Grounds Aug. 13.
Starting lineups will be announced on the morning of the game.

Schoolboys Can't Get Stadium Before Spring

It appeared definite today that the Boston high schools' athletes will be without a stadium when they return to school in the fall despite the fact that the city has the right to finance and construct one.
When Mayor John B. Hynes was advised by City Auditor Charles J. Fox that all obstacles had been cleared even to the tentative approval of the bonding company that underwrites city loans, he admitted, with regret, that the city could not complete such a project until the spring at the earliest because of the time required for planning, land taking and advertising for bids.

Ryba's Lynn Sox Lead N. E. League By 8 1/2 Game Edge

By The Associated Press
Mike Ryba's high-stepping Lynn Red Sox held an eight and one-half game margin over the second-place Nashua Dodgers today as the New England League leaders continued on their way to their second straight pennant with a 4-2 victory over the Manchester Giants last night.
While the Sockers were racking up another victory, all other games—Nashua at Pawtucket, Fall River at Providence and Lowell at Portland—we washed out.
Center fielder Jim Shirley led the Lynn offensive with a brace of doubles and a single in four times at bat.
The rained-out Lowell at Portland game will be played as part of a doubleheader tonight. Nashua at Pawtucket, Providence at Fall River and Lynn at Manchester all are scheduled twin-contests to night.

Pro Grid Rules Under Doubt

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 23 (AP)—At least one college grid coach—Bob Higgins of Penn State—wondered today whether rules adopted by the National Football League meant anything. Higgins' bewilderment arose over the announced signing of his star guard, Leo Noble, by the NFL's Washington Redskins. Noble had one more year of eligibility in college football.
The Nittany Lions coach said the pro league passed a rule on Sunday that member clubs would be restrained from signing players who still had an opportunity to play college ball. Then, on Monday, the Redskins announced the signing of the Penn State guard.
"What kind of a rule is that?" asked Higgins when he learned that the Ambridge youth would no longer be a member of the 1947 Lions.

Son Accused

Mrs. Johanna Monday, 58, of Los Angeles, comforts her son Bernard, 19, after a coroner's jury recommended he be held on suspicion of murder in the shooting of his father. Mrs. Monday tearfully told the jury that her husband was beating her when the son raced to another room, got his father's gun and fired the fatal shot.

Baker's Dozen

Jacobus Hut, his wife, Tjitske, and their 13 very lively children line up on the deck of the liner Veendam on arrival in New York from their native Holland. This great big family plan to live in Goshen, N. Y. Children range from 13 months to 13 years.
